Our high school years at North Central are an essential part of our education

"Where am I going?" . . . "What will I become?" . . . These are questions that every young person asks himself at some time during his journey toward adulthood. Education provides an answer by introducing the individual to new ideas, new people, and new horizons. At North Central, through the influence of 139 excellent faculty members and the facilities of a top ranking educational center, 2550 students are channeled in directions that will determine their future lives.

Individual research, and depth study on special interest projects were encouraged in three new courses set up in the Math and Science Departments. One, of national interest, was Earth Science, planned by university and high school teachers in Boulder, Colorado, in the summer of 1964, and tried out in 15 test centers in the United States. Its difference lies in stressing concept rather than straight presentation of facts.

Two others, Math Topics and Physics Topics, dealt with research also. In the small Physics Topics class, three people concentrated on subjects they selected. "Matrices," "determinates," and "quaternions" are a few of the advanced subjects covered in Math Topics, in which new systems of algebra were developed. The Math and Science curriculum also offers a wide variety of other courses.

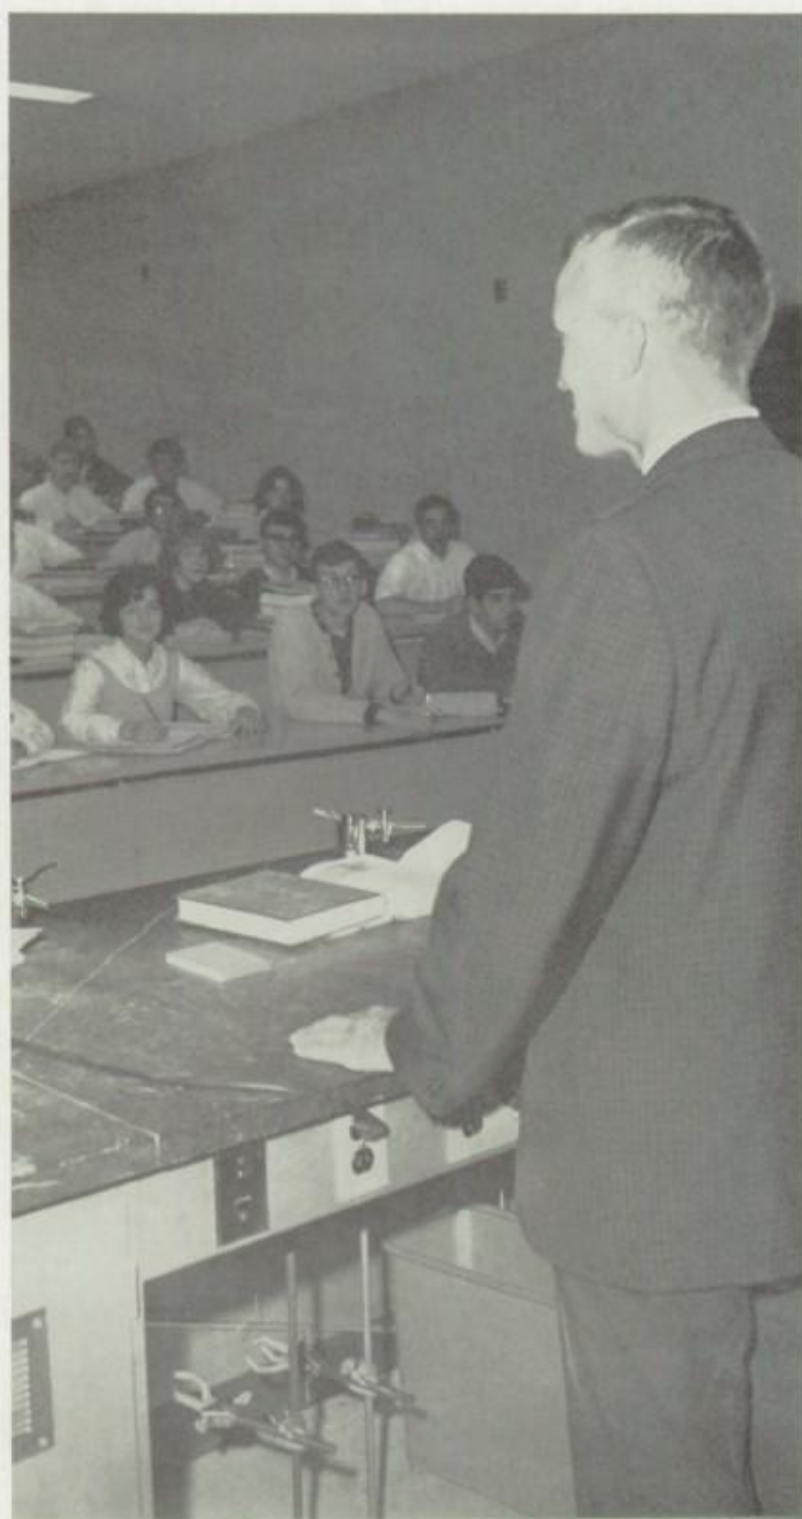

Christmas came to the Chemistry Department when Joyce Benz and Bob Jahnke constructed a tree of angel's hair, decorated with flasks of brightly colored chemicals.

Tom Jessup, Jon West, and Scott Sebastian send weighted objects down an inclined plane to study acceleration.

Independent research encouraged in math and science

Classes which are "team-taught" provide an opportunity for students to benefit from the experience and knowledge of several teachers who alternate teaching the class.

Science student Steve Oberreich takes advantage of his spare time to do extra research in the lab.

Outstanding geometry projects, turned in each year, are kept on file for use in future demonstrations. Doug Youtsey explains one of these, a model "linkage."

During a visit to Indiana University, Roberta Glanzman previews college life by a tour of the Lilly Library.

On one of the field trips that enlivened English classes, a group of Junior X students visited the Lilly Library at Indiana University where they acquainted themselves with rare books and personal mementoes of transcendentalist authors.

In other classes, panel discussions were enthusiastically set up to talk about the authors in particular periods, their distinctive writing styles, and the published result of their efforts.

Fifteen senior students met with Miss Bush to initiate an advanced X composition class. Dr. Bagby commented on it as, "an expenditure of time in the right direction."

To lessen his tension when appearing before a speech class audience, Dave Boos chooses a familiar topic.

Reading lab students improve learning and reading skills by using special tapes which supplement their work books.

Panel Discussions and field trips enliven English curriculum

Original material for "Etchings in Thought," the English Department's publication, are assembled by Bob Williams, Sylvia Bryan, Miss Jeannine Freudenberg, and Kathy Messenger, editorial staff members.

Comparing past and present voting trends, Jill Hirschman refers to the 1864 election in predicting this year's results.

During election time, Debby Krueger brought news articles and campaign material to fill Mr. Meek's bulletin board.

Some of the extreme partisanship shown in this year's political contest spilled over into the mock election staged by a world history class, in which votes were cast for either Goldwater or Johnson.

John Hiner consults books reserved by Mr. Taylor in a special section of the library.

Social Studies classes focus on politics during election year

Using the suggestions made by the Ohio State Evaluations Committee and the Indiana Commission for the Revision of Social Studies, the Social Studies Department set up a new program of objectives for the classes.

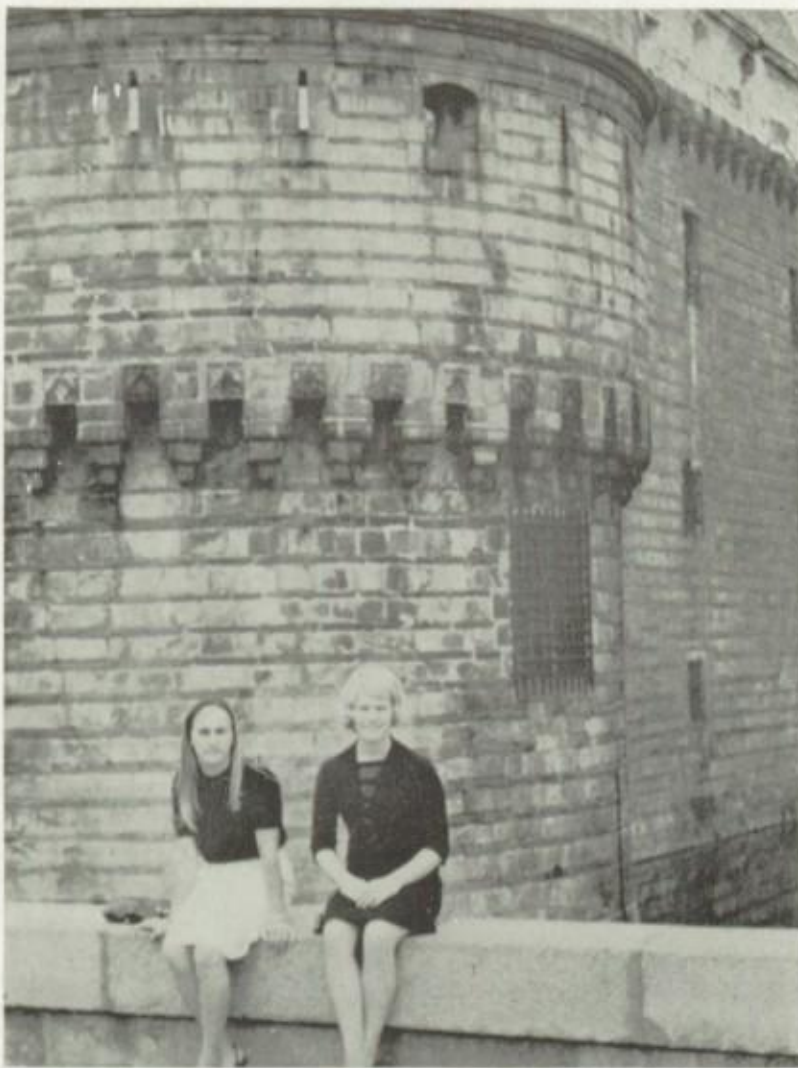

In addition, as a special project, Barbara Bessey and Robertson Williams attended a Ball State assembly whose subject was "The United States in the Middle East." Sharon Gunason and John Gambill were present at the National Science Foundation program at Goucher College.

Continuing a seminar program started at the old North Central, the department brought speakers to the school, each of whom spent an entire day lecturing to successive social studies classes.

Since an understanding of the stock exchange is essential in economics, Mr. Niemeyer and Ben Small visit Thomson and McKinnon, stock brokers in Glendale.

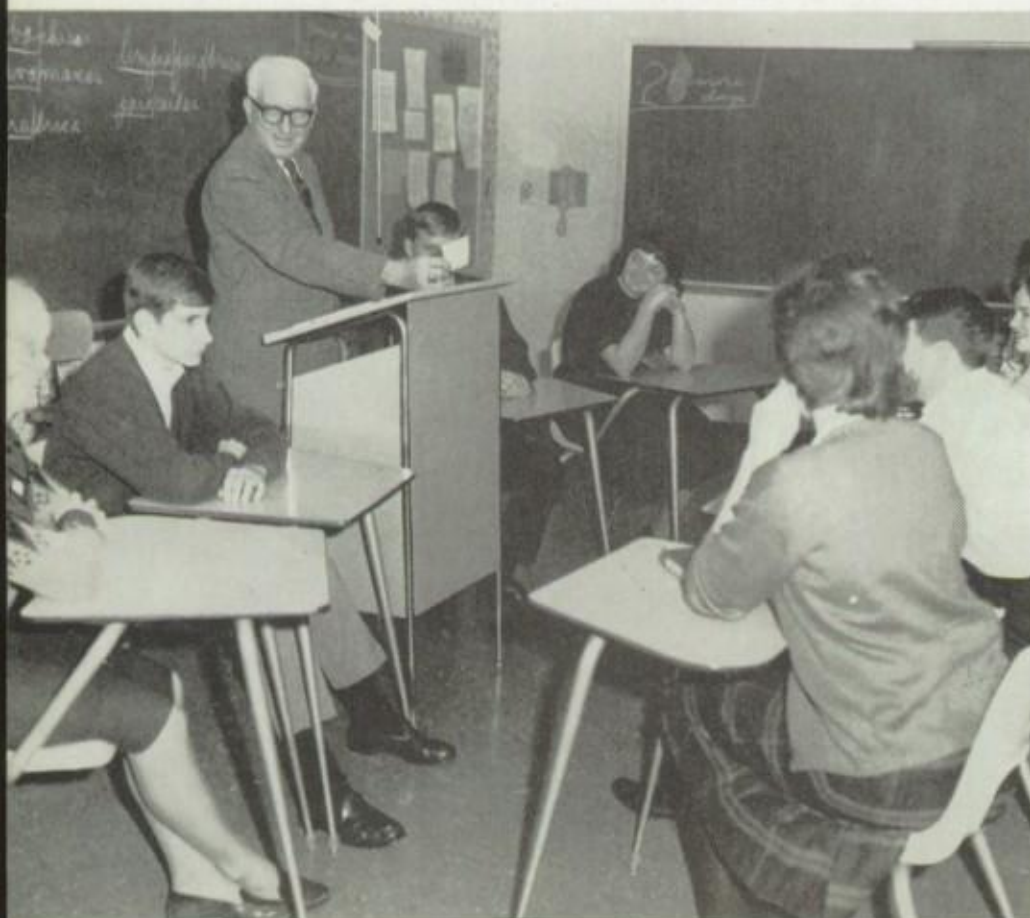

During her summer in France on the I. U. Honors Program, Madelyn Pert and her "sister," Chantal Mahé, visited historic places, including the Castle of the Duchess Anne.

to speak
foreign languages
"the modern way"*

A game of Spanish "password" tests the vocabulary skills of Mr. White's fourth year students.

The sequence for learning a foreign language the "modern way" is to listen, to speak, to read, and to write. In the lab which is used extensively during the first two years, pupils hear natives speak, and then listen to tape recordings of their own voices to improve pronunciation.

Practical mastery of a foreign language is the primary goal in the I. U. Honors Program in which selected advanced students go abroad to study French, German, and Spanish. Living with native families gives them personal experiences within the culture.

This year, for the first time there is a fourth year course in German. This Advanced Placement course of the College Entrance Examination Board has only one student so far but interest is expected to grow.

Sampling authentic German pastry is one of Steve Englehart's privileges as Santa for the German club's party.

A.F.S. student Ann Bergman sings folk songs with Cindy Conrad, Dan Duncan, and her American sister, Lynn Keene.

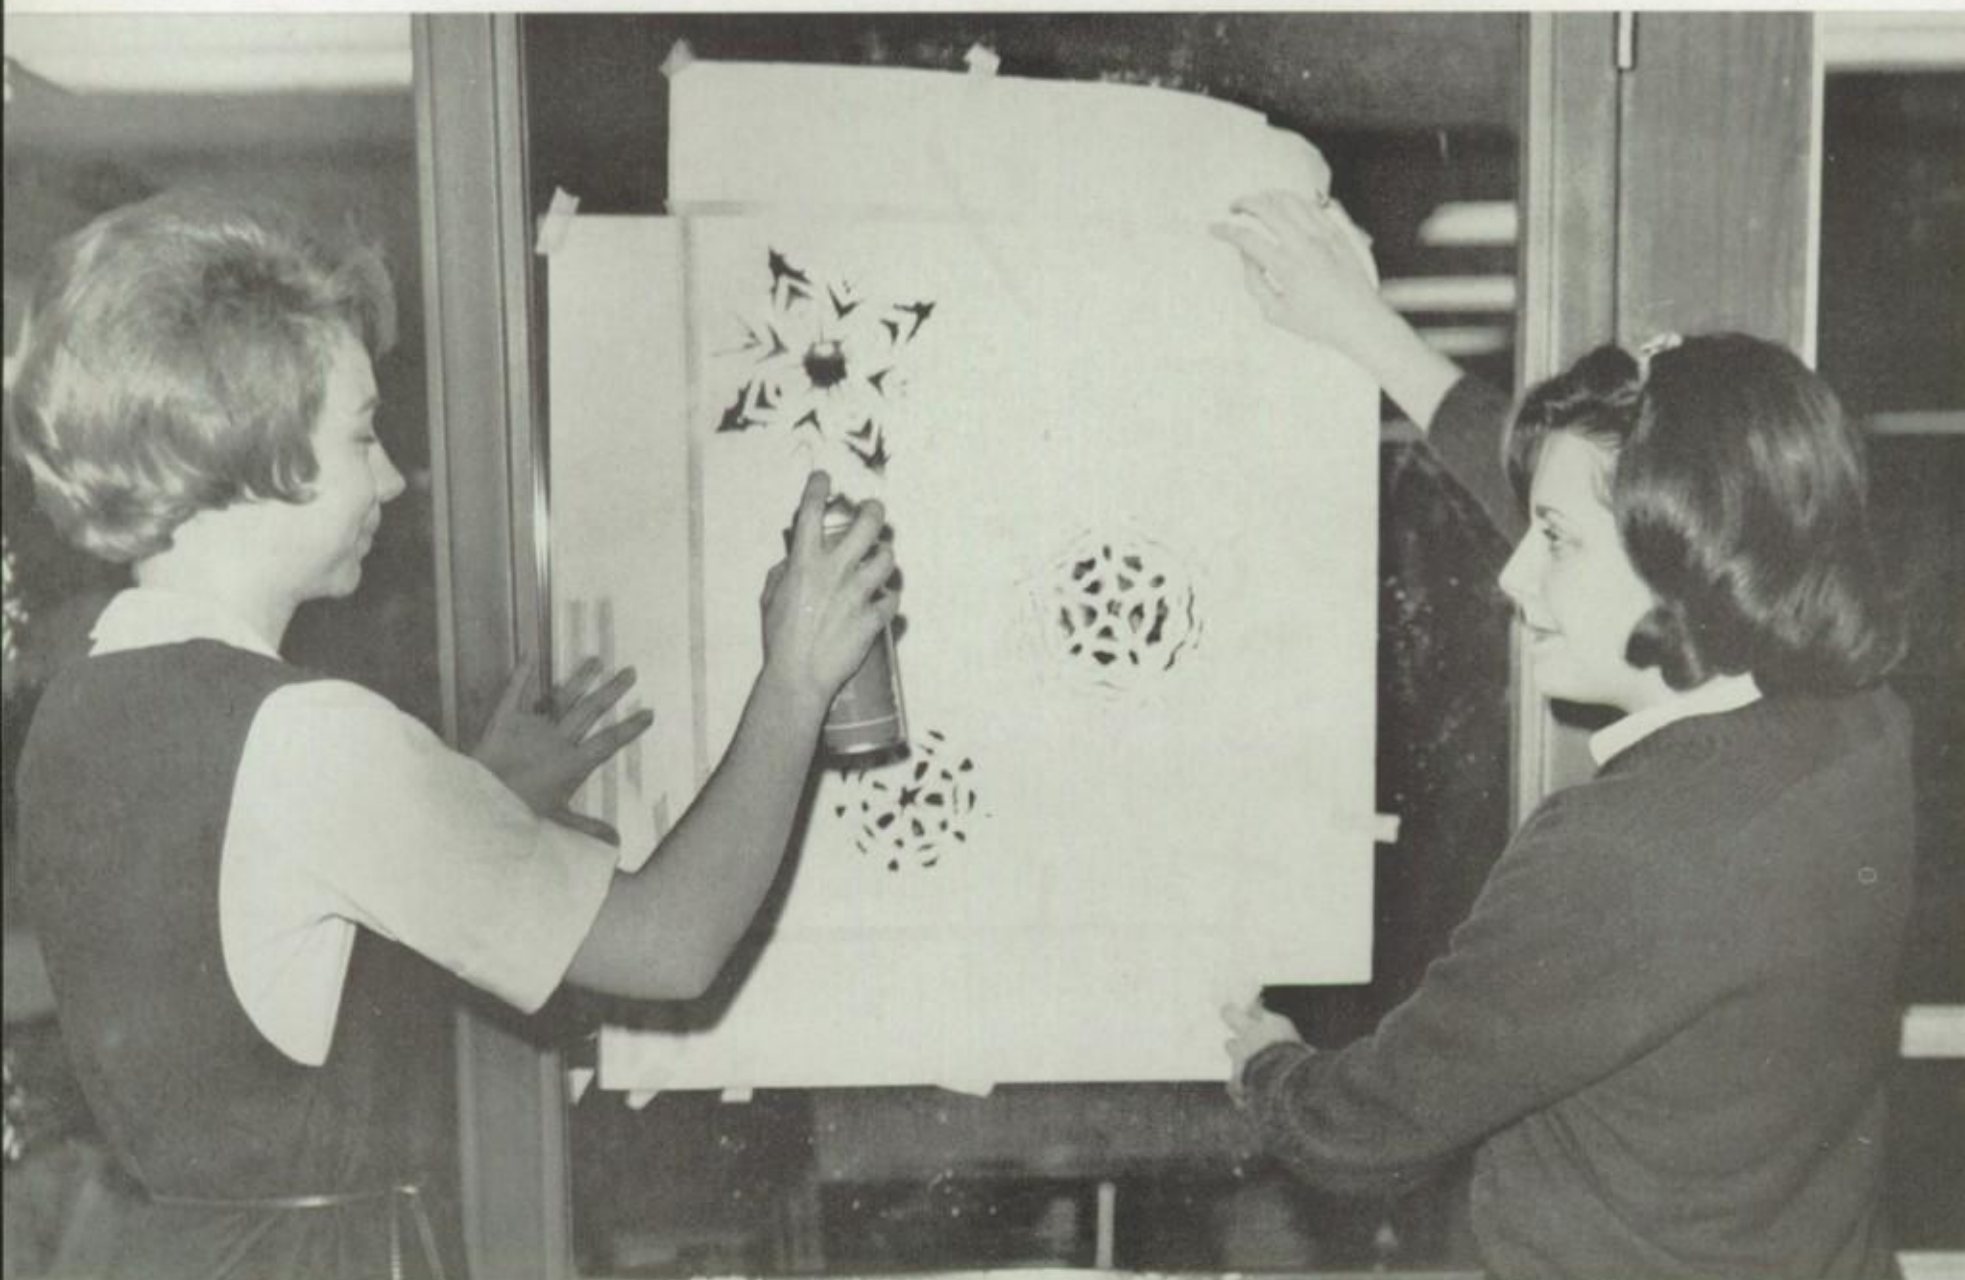

Rough stones become semi-precious jewels when Barb Nolte polishes them on the lapidary wheel under the watchful eye of Miss Kyle.

Basic skills and techniques were taught as a final objective in the Art Department. Stress was placed on learning self-expression through the media of weaving, sculpturing, and oil or water color painting.

The long corridor outside art rooms served as a showcase for various displays. Exhibits included modern Japanese prints from the Howard Hunt Pen Company and John Herron art students' work. Most of the year's classwork centered on the all school art show held May 13.

North Central was the only high school whose Music Department participated in two national meetings held in Indianapolis. Choral groups were invited to sing for the American Choral Directors Association and The Music Educational National Conference. For the latter program a humanities production "Run For Daylight" was performed.

Snowflakes fell on the cafeteria windows as art students Phyllis Madison and Joyce Dodson put cans of "Spray Snow," stencils, and a little bit of imagination to good use to help brighten the school.

Practical Arts classes stress safety at home

Being careful not to get soap in the baby's eyes, Mrs. Stout shows Becky Reinking, Marcia Darling, Patsy Perry, and Bev Hubbel the proper way to bathe a child.

The student handbook describes Industrial Arts as "contributing objectives of education with certain intrinsic values within its courses." Visible proof of this fact lies in the many projects undertaken by the students.

Drafting concentrates on freehand and instrumental drawings by which accuracy and manual dexterity are developed. Most of the Metropolitan District's printing is handled by students in the print shop.

The spring fashion show which culminated a busy year for Home Economics girls, demonstrated their progress in making their own clothes. Food classes provided refreshments and served as hostesses for the affair. The showcase in the Home Economics wing also displayed the students' projects.

Besides preparing "eatables," Advanced Foods classes studied china and silver patterns, and learned proper table settings for special occasions. Outside speakers gave family living classes useful advice.

Mark Miller learns to read the fine print of an insurance policy as part of his training in business law.

Centralites develop skills in office, automobiles and gymnasium

The Business Department is constantly being upgraded to meet standards set by employers, and to make sure that college bound students have skills needed in preparing materials to be submitted and in holding part-time jobs. Currently, business majors get a good foundation for any area they may hope to enter.

The Physical Education Department also offers training in skills but with a different objective. It correlates mental and social growth with physical development, helping Centralites to become well rounded individuals. Courses are geared to all levels of ability.

Developing fundamental driving skills along with good "roadmanship" are the objectives in Driver's Education. At least six hours are required behind the wheel.

To strengthen their arm muscles, Ron Milender and Mike Perkins haul themselves up a rope hung from gym beams.

Cheri Jones takes the first steps toward becoming an expert driver with a practice spin in the driver's education car. Instructor Mr. Wood and fellow students Mark Sprecher and John Miles accompany her.

the SCHOOL LIFE

Life at North Central is the sound of laughing voices in the Student Center, the slam of lockers on a Monday morning, and the sight of librarians checking out books. It is running to make it to class, cheering at a pep session, performing in a school play, or cramming for an exam. But, most of all, life at North Central is a learning experience fused from countless daily incidents shared with classmates and teachers, an experience that molds each Centralite's personality.

N. C. H. S. provides an apprenticeship

Quiet, empty halls stretch all through the building. Only a few people are striding along on their assigned tasks. Suddenly a bell shatters the silence and masses of students pour out of classrooms.

This mob of hurrying teen-agers are "special" because they are North Centralites. Working and living together for five days a week, they share a common bond. They absorb the abundance of knowledge open to them and they work to make North Central more than just an academic institution.

Every year these active young people spend many hours after school and on the week ends to make Junior Spectacular, the Family Jamboree, the Fall Festival, College Night, Careers Day, and many other activities a success.

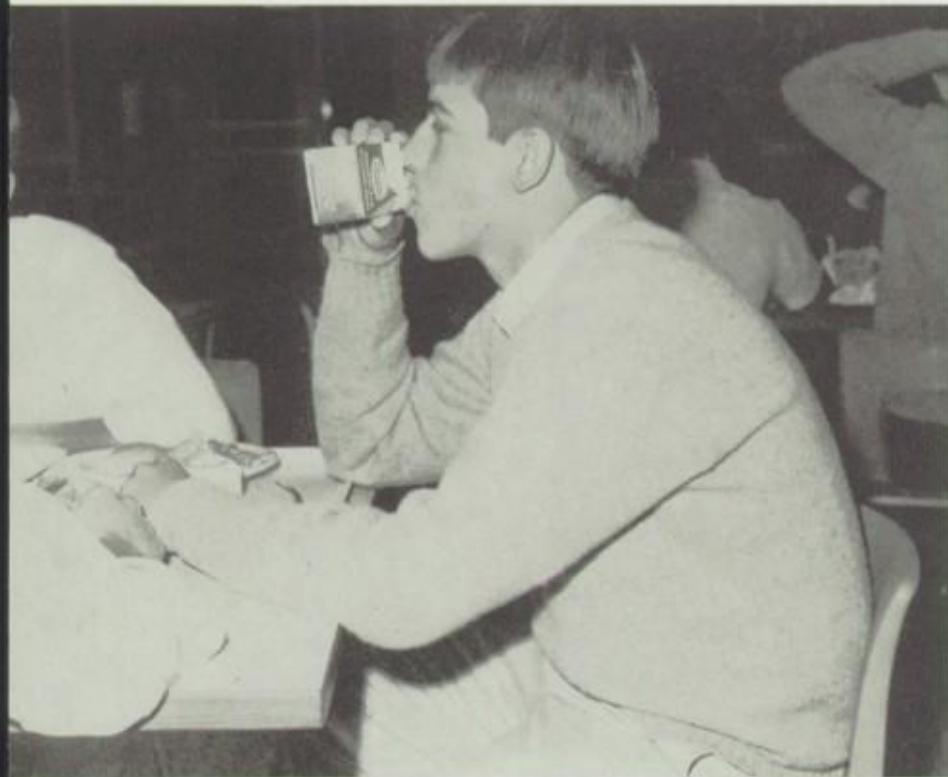

Even on the coldest, snowiest days of the year, the reliable school buses faithfully complete their rounds.

Busy North Centralites, Steve Talesnick and Carl Bose, snatch a few minutes for conversation on their way to class.

n group living

Louis Buddenbaum anticipates lunchtime as one of the few times for relaxation and a chance to discuss week end plans.

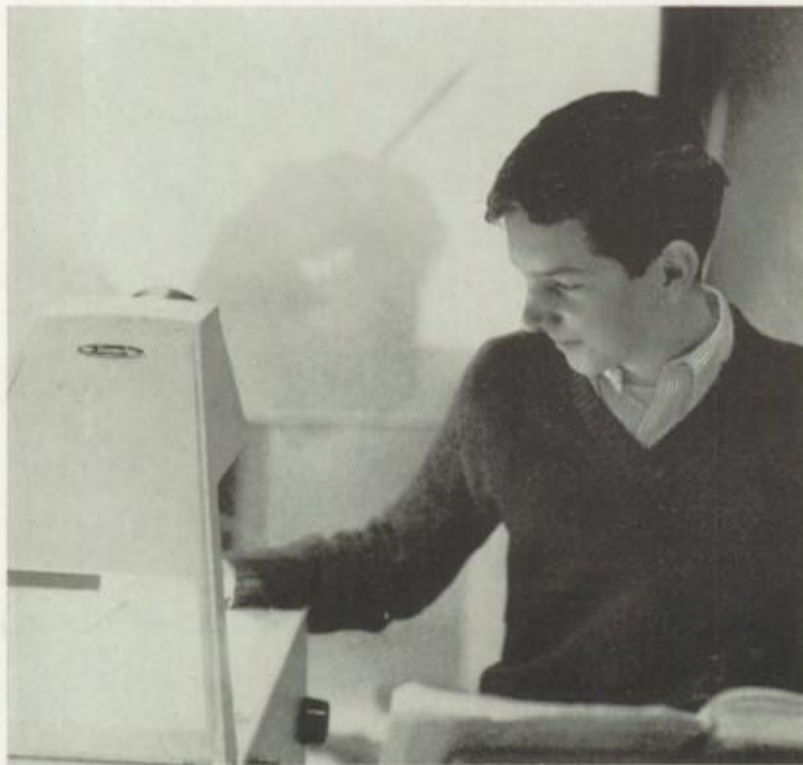

Mixing business with pleasure, Bob Williams and Dick Aikman enjoy welcoming pretty newcomers like Diane Pavey.

North Central's formal atmosphere gave way to a carnival spirit for the annual Triangle Club sponsored Family Jamboree.

Momentarily taking over the role of teacher, Dave Martin uses the overhead projector for an effective presentation.

Gwen Dixon can familiarize herself with any university in the country, using records and slides on file in the library.

Diana Roberts helps Miss Williams arrange a display of Washington and Lincoln mementoes in the library showcase.

Academic atmosphere

Teachers lecturing to classes, students "cramming" in the Student Center before school, a hushed silence floating over the library, and a curly-head hiding deep in the pages of a Greek philosophy book, proclaim the academic atmosphere which prevails at North Central. In this school, most pupils are preparing to be college students. They learn to pursue knowledge beyond classroom facts by constantly reading, questioning, and experimenting.

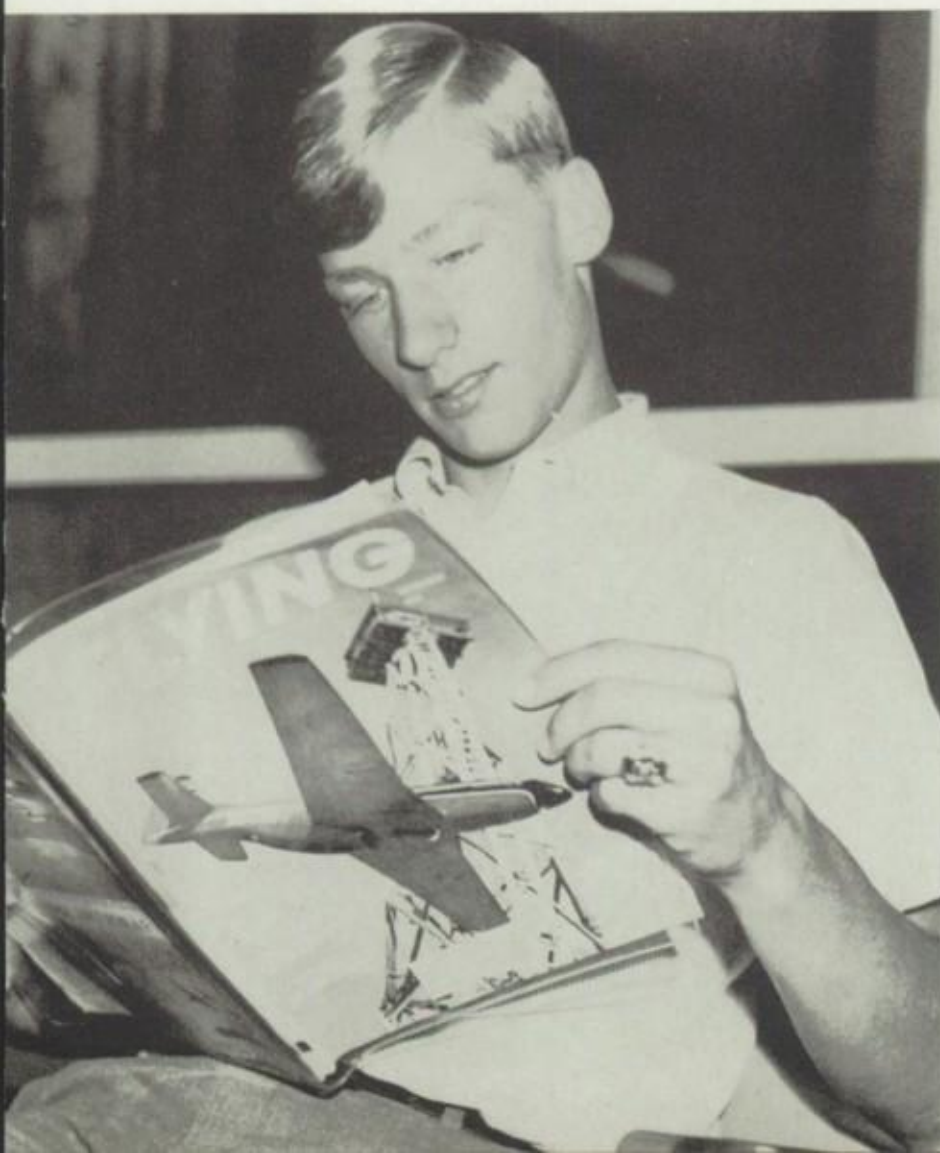

But North Centralites also gain a great respect for knowledge through personal contacts with their teachers. A friendly smile in the halls, a kind word following class, or a long talk after school helps students realize that teachers are congenial people.

Mike Berger and Bill Lee interrupt their studies to appreciate the art exhibit provided by the Triangle Club.

Widely diverse programs ranging from opera to demonstrations of physical skill; two school plays, "The Skin of Our Teeth" and "The Importance of Being Earnest"; a Forensics convocation; and concerts by the Music Department provided culture, entertainment, and theatrical experience for North Centralites.

Special speakers for Lincoln's birthday and Thanksgiving and a programmed look at automobiles of the future were scheduled events for Friday auditoriums.

Queen Carol Burns and King Dion Stevens step from the dais to dance at the '64 Junior Prom, Tahitian Twilight.

Tense emotions precede the announcement of Prom royalty; Santa Claus gives out candy canes at the Student Council Christmas ball; students plan original decoration ideas; these were only a few of the unforgettable moments connected with North Central's dances.

Weeks of careful planning preceded the gala hours. Dedicated committee members came to school early on Saturday morning to decorate, and remained long after the crowd had left to convert the Student Center to its normal state.

Annual Fall Festival

"Packed With Goal Power," a homecoming float, was created by Jan Dustman, Madelyn Pert, and Shelly Wright.

The high point of the Fall Festival came when two powerful teams, the North Central Panthers and the Howe Hornets clashed to decide the victor. Weeks of preparation preceded the festivities which took place on October 16. Begun early in the fall, five floats were completed in top secret isolation. These included "Steamin' to Victory," "Packed with Goal Power," "Panthers Exterminate Hornets," "The Goal Rush," and "Panthers Raid Hornets."

During half-time, queen candidates Sherri Cravens, Carol Burns, Charlotte Bolles, Susie Jerden, and Madelyn Pert were given royal treatment as they were driven around the track in Mustang convertibles.

Girls mustered up enough courage to ask that "certain" boy to the Turnabout dance, "'Goal'den Autumn" which culminated the week end's activities. During the intermission Dick Schulte was crowned king.

portrays spirit through sports

Although the five halftime floats were basically "school spirit in sports," a variety of ideas interpreted the theme.

A gang of hoods who own a speakeasy are reformed through the efforts of "Reverend" Rick Peoples in "Ah Restitution" by Phyllis Matekunis.

"The Four Guys," one of the acts which performed during intermission, features Mike Berkowitz, Rick Peoples, Frank Bodwell, Dan Duncan, and Don Salter.

Sleepy-eyed students nodding over their books, homework hastily scrawled on the back of a dog-eared script, ashen-faced actors drifting backstage before a critic's rehearsal, students with toes trampled on during long waits in front of the ticket booth . . . all these and more are annual symptoms of Junior Spectacular.

Student co-ordinators Jill Jackson and Dave Martin together with faculty advisers Miss Laycock, Mr. Lord, and Mr. Martin, scheduled rehearsals and saw that all went smoothly until the last curtain call.

Another vital part of this year's performance were the committee chairmen: Elaine Storey and Lynn Eckle, publicity; Chris Slaughter, ticket sales; Bonnie Lindquist, ushers; and Bob Davidson, program. For the second year, Fred Clayton drew the winning design for the program.

Centralites plan for college and careers

After a College Night session, Mrs. William Ramey and Mrs. Morgan Zook had further questions to ask a speaker.

Getting a head start on her future career as a nurse, Kathy Burgess spends her Saturdays as a "Candystriper."

A "standing room only" crowd on Career Day heard Mrs. Barker describe her daughter's Peace Corps activities.

Dashing to the mailbox in anticipation of a college acceptance, nervously fidgeting before meeting a college representative, and staring open-mouthed at the first glimpse of campus life, typify the enthusiasm of Centralites toward furthering their education. During the sixth annual College Night, over sixty colleges and universities were represented. Ample time was provided for students and their parents to visit three speakers.

Career Day, directed by Student Council's vice-president Mary Sweet, afforded Centralites the opportunity of attending two forty-minute vocation sessions. But Career Day is only a small part of Centralites' efforts toward deciding on their future occupations. Many students already hold part-time jobs and others donate their time for volunteer work.

David Chernin bids Diane Boone good-bye as she leaves North Central for the last time as a student.

Centralites' interests find expression in an extensive program
of ACTIVITIES

Activities at North Central provide a forty-minute break in the day during which students can learn new skills or share hobbies with classmates and teachers. Centralites' varied interests have led to the formation of seventy-one clubs which participate in a wide range of activities. Plays, parties, and field trips frequently are the outgrowth of enthusiastic planning by members. Through this program, each student is given a chance to participate in activities outside the classroom.

With the cooperation of the Sheriff's Department, students' cars are safety-checked for permission to drive to school.

By the time the second year in the new North Central came around, the Student Council settled down to planning the projects it normally sponsored, among which were Career Day, Back-to-School Night, and College Night.

Crowning of a king at the "'Goal'den Autumn" turnabout dance culminated the week-long activities of the Fall Festival, also a Council responsibility. Other events included the revealing of the name of the queen and a parade of five student-built floats during half-time.

Members volunteered to spend study periods working in the Student Council Bookstore. An unusually extensive offering of paperbacks were put on sale in this money-making venture.

"That Was the Christmas That Was," a parody on the title of a popular television program, became the theme of the annual Christmas dance. A spring dance was scheduled for later in the year.

Safety checks held by the Safety Council, a branch of the Student Council, were required before students could get permission to drive their cars to school. Tom Miller, elected in the spring of the last school year, served as chairman.

Art, religion form vital part of our culture

With water colors as a medium, Kathy Kerr and Susie Jerden learn the use of brush techniques in forming designs.

Although art and religion appear to have two separate identities, actually they are culturally related as a part of our society. The Comparative Religion Club, the Art Club, and the Art Crafts Club afforded an opportunity for students to follow their own lines of interest in the fields of art and religion.

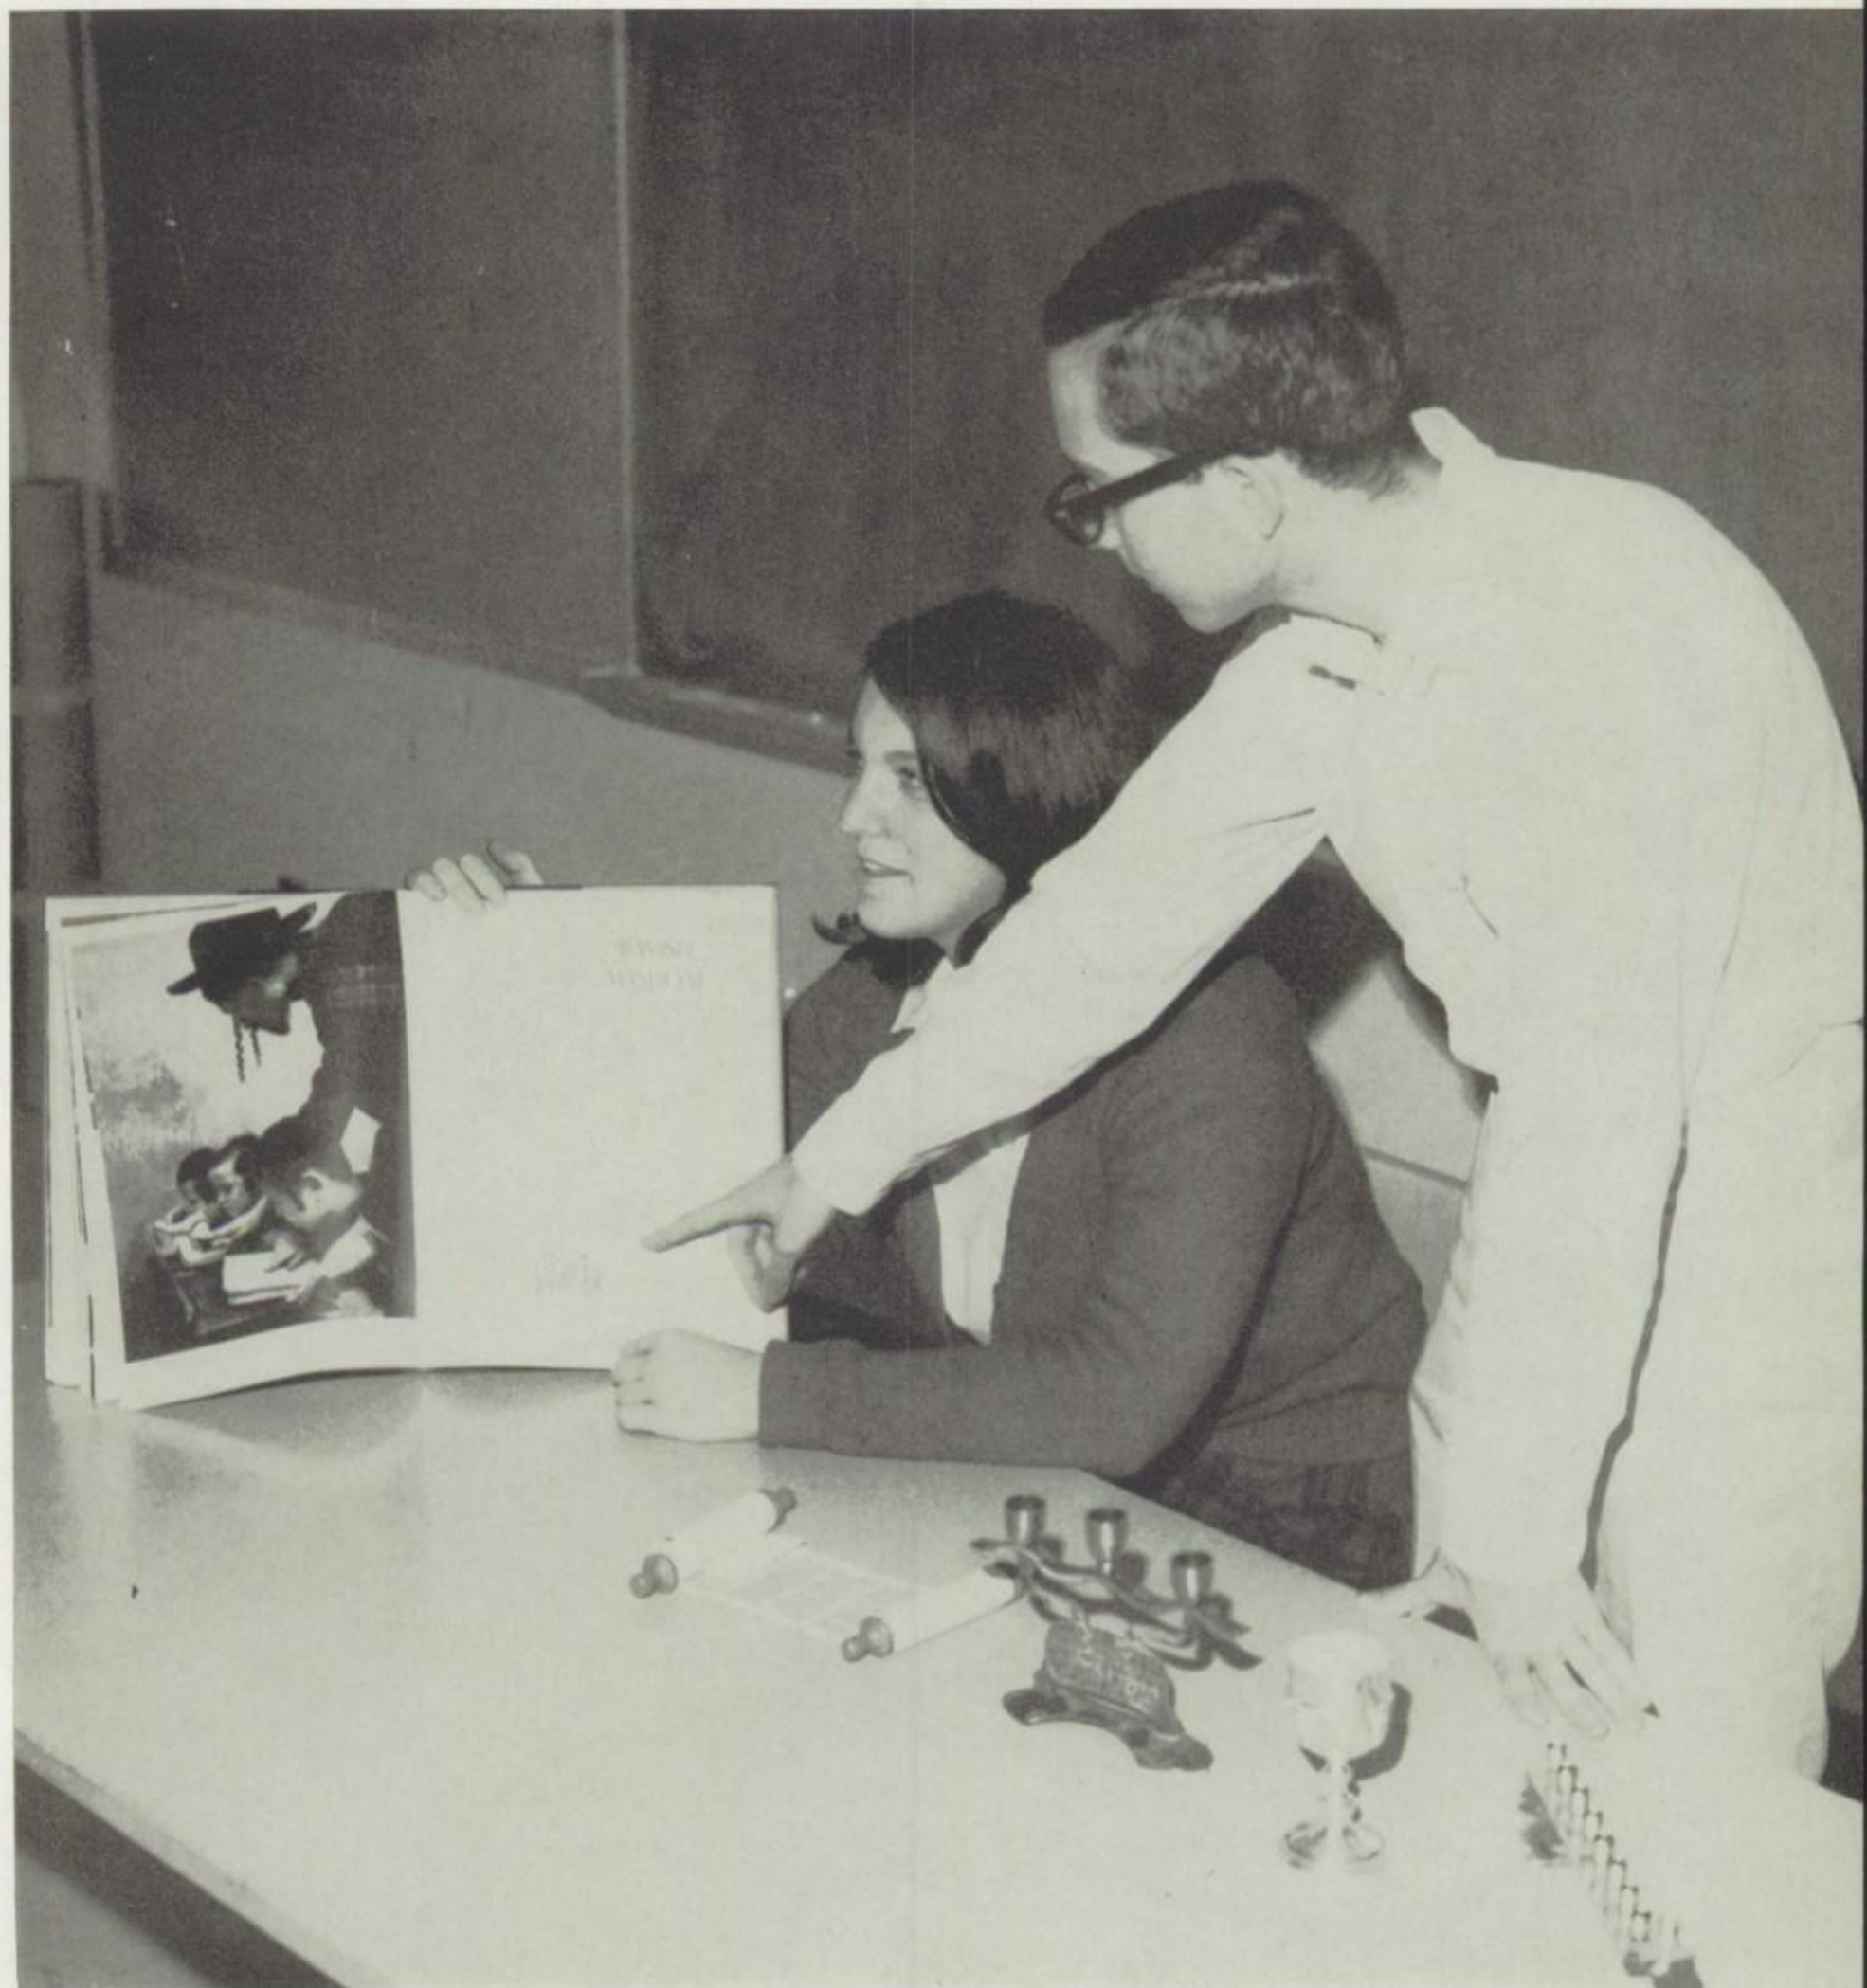

Art Crafts and Art Clubs worked jointly on preparing for the annual all school art show, the major project for both groups. Mr. Keyt, Mrs. Brothers, and Miss Kyle supervised activities. Physical facilities necessarily restricted membership to students desiring to work seriously with art and crafts.

The Comparative Religion Club increased its members' understanding of the doctrines involved in the world's major religions. The group met after school to hear lectures on various religions, given by qualified speakers.

Techniques learned in Art Club aid Kristi Hill in glazing the clay vase that she made.

To deepen their fellow club members' understanding of Judaism, Debby Gans and David Jacobs display symbols of their faith at a meeting.

As part of club procedure, John Hiner leads a planning session on topics for debates.

dramatic ability

Participation in forensic contests is a prerequisite for membership in the National Forensic Club. The main purpose of the nationally affiliated club is to stimulate interest in "the art of argumentative discourse," and to encourage students to enter a variety of speech contests. In the first month of competition for 1964-65, fifteen beginning debaters earned membership status and more were eligible by the end of the year. The Debate Team entered the Central District Tourney, the National Tourney, and the State and National Student Congress.

Members of the Debate Club, from which the team was chosen, were expected to participate in early novice debate contests at a sub-varsity level. This afforded an opportunity for the members to work with varsity debaters while competing with beginners. Members were briefed on the proper debate styles and procedures before entering the varied competition. Experienced debaters, upon their return from contests, analyzed, discussed, and evaluated their performances.

Debaters Steve Nisenbaum and Dan Goodman stage a mock argument in practicing for a future meet.

By taking part in club programs, Christina Simmons improves her skill in giving "spur-of-the-moment" speeches.

Students inspired by the performances of the Boys' and Girls' Booster Blocks, Pep Band, and Baton Corps became enthusiastically school-spirited this year. The Panther Athletic Association, a newly formed organization, also increased interest in sports by publicizing the school's past records. Committees were established to do research on specific sports with reports to be given at meetings.

Booster Club members learned hand movements to coordinate with cheers and songs led by the cheerleaders. The girls' black sweaters and red and white gloves made the North Central booster section noteworthy.

Participation in the "500" Festival Parade and in the Thanksgiving Parade were two of the events in which the Baton Corps took part. The Northern Starlettes, chosen the preceding spring, performed precision drills under the leadership of head major-ette, Janet Butler, during halftime breaks at the games.

Mr. Schlatter directed the Pep Band which furnished a musical background consisting of a combination of college songs, school cheers' accompaniments, and popular songs.

Drama groups co-operate for successful year

The success of North Central's dramatic productions this year can be attributed to the combined efforts of all students belonging to Thespians, Drama, Costume, and Stagecrew clubs.

Each year the Drama Club and Thespians separately sponsor major school productions. In addition to this, a series of one-act plays and programs are presented by club members. Members of the Costume Club, whose duty it is to maintain the school's costumes for dramatic productions, work closely with them. Equally important in a production's success are people who belong to the Stagecrew Club. They handle all the multitude of backstage operations which include building scenery and setting up equipment for all school productions and assemblies.

Mr. Allen, new to the school this year, assisted Mr. Lord, the dramatic supervisor, in directing these groups with their activities.

Five clubs had a common bond in a love for literature. One of these, the American Authors Club, devoted meetings to discussions of major novelists, their published works, and the way in which they influenced American culture. Contemporary writers were stressed, although contributions of all American authors were considered.

Approved lists sent out by the Great Books Foundation were the basis for reading choices made by Great Books Club members. Examples of Western culture were examined and discussed from a philosophical rather than a literary point of view.

The Shakespeare Club was primarily a study group devoted to the careful reading and interpretation of Shakespeare's plays. It was open to all juniors and seniors having a sincere interest in the subject.

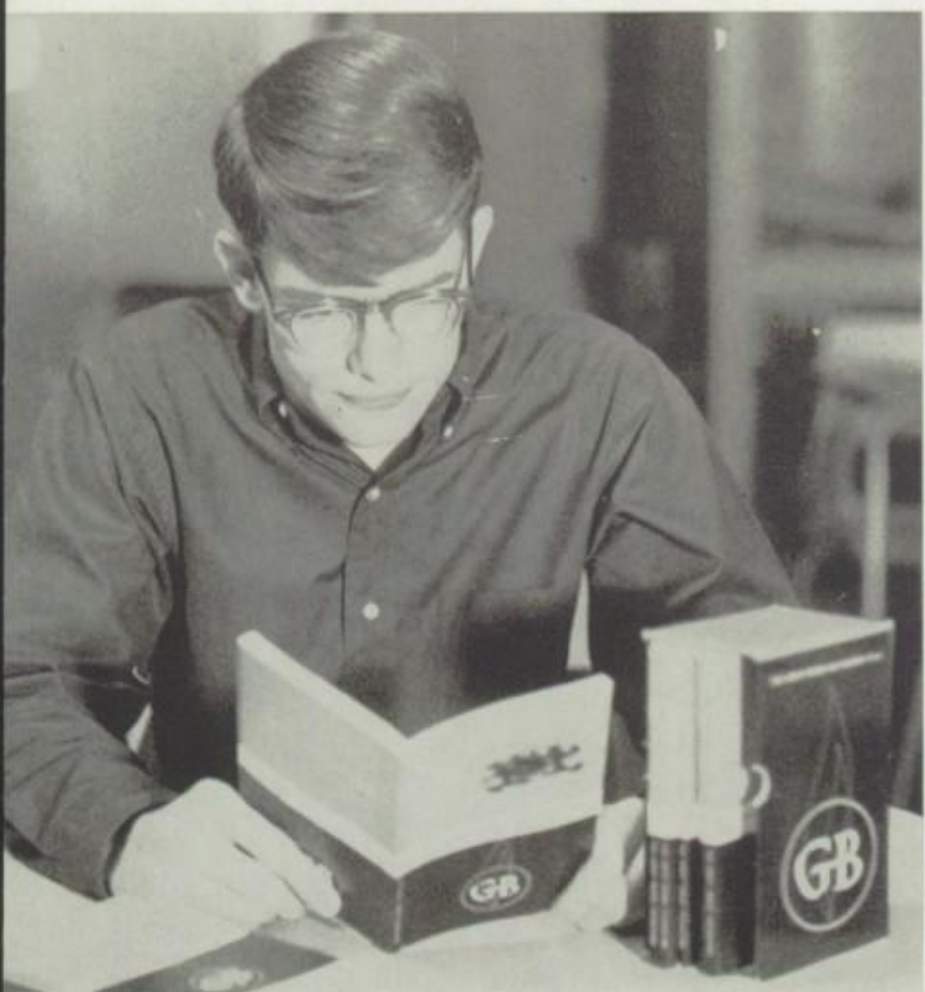

Appreciation and enjoyment of carefully selected poems and of passages from poetical dramas were the objectives of Poetry Club members. Emphasis was on oral interpretation although some original poems were contributed.

Membership in the Library Club was open to those persons serving as student library assistants. The purpose of the club was to improve the school library; to perform services for it; to arouse further enthusiasm for books and for reading; to promote knowledge of, and interest in the library; and to encourage young librarians.

As the party's activities progressed, students sang "Cantique de Noel," the French translation of "Oh, Holy Night."

customs, art, literature of foreign countries

To help students broaden their knowledge of foreign languages and to understand the country in which that language originated was the primary objective of the Spanish, French, Latin, and German clubs. Each club presented programs which familiarized the members with life in the country studied and created a feeling of closer relationships with the people.

Three of these organizations, French, German, and Spanish, emphasized the language, art, literature, and culture of their countries. Skits by members provided program entertainment and parties were sponsored. Latin Club members ignored the present and concentrated on the past glories of Greece and Rome. During their meetings students became acquainted with ancient mythology which helped them understand references made in modern literature.

German Club officers include Lynne Keene, secretary; Rick Howard, program chairman; Cindy Conrad, vice-president; and Gary Ford, president.

At the Spanish Club's Christmas party, president Mike Berger and secretary Carolyn Kuhn attempt to break a candy-filled piñata in the traditional Mexican fiesta style. Members made the donkey with paper-mache and colored strips of crepe paper.

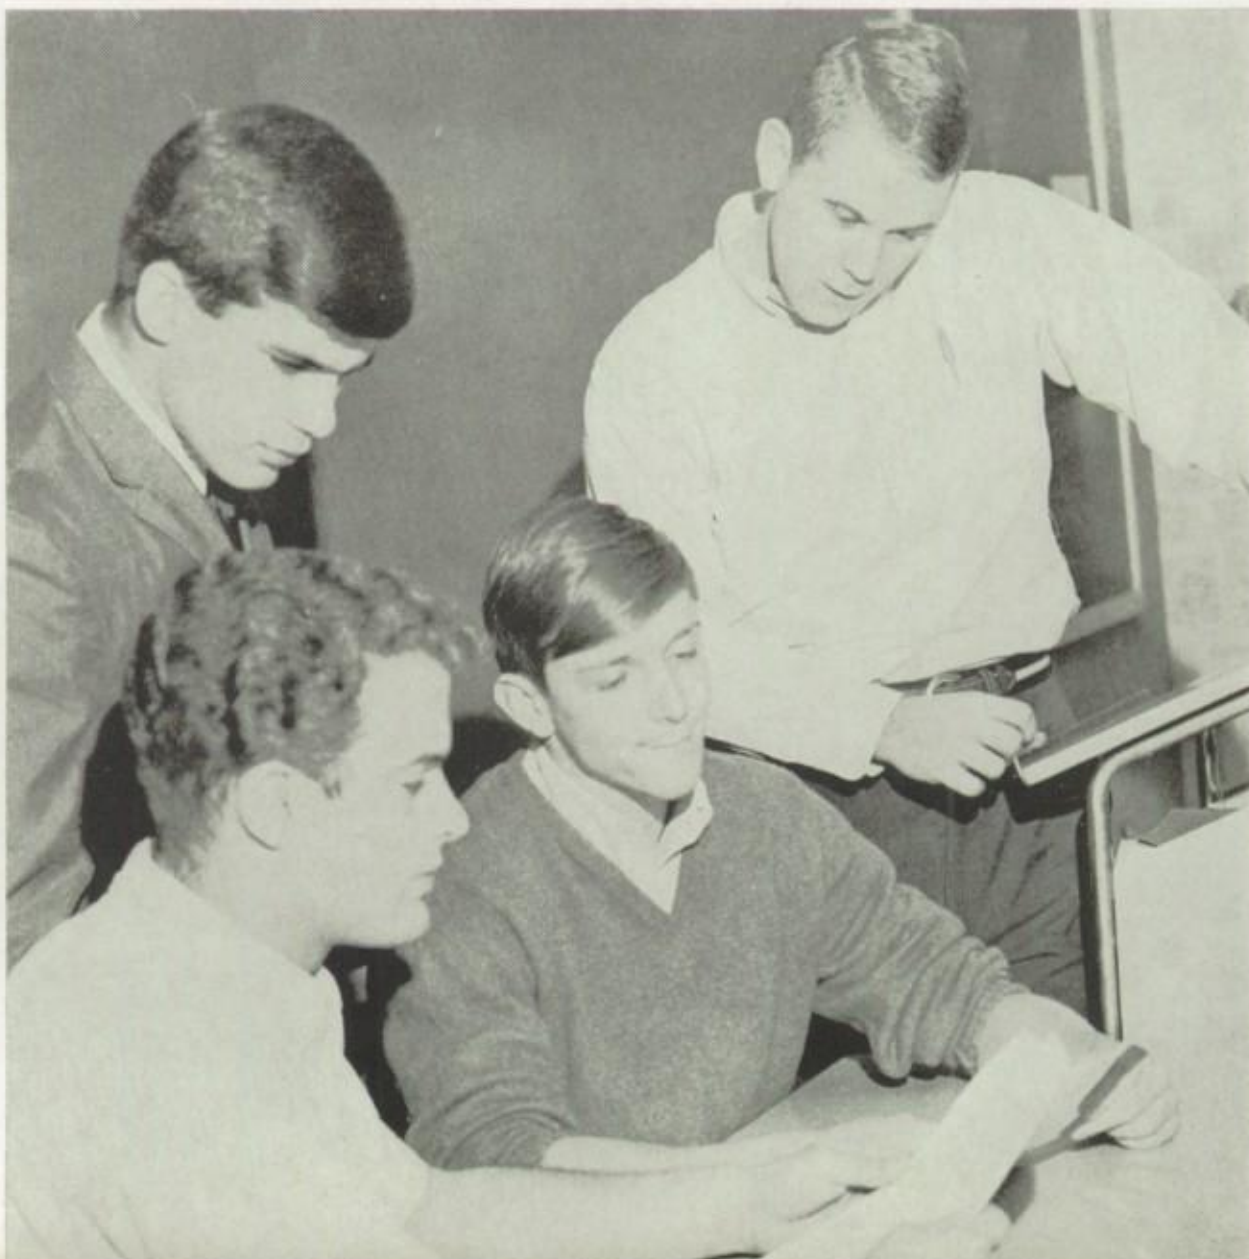

State Senator Nelson Grills chats about "inside information" to Government Club officers, Mr. Fleming, the sponsor; Bill Pelsue, president; Diane Boone, vice president; and Susie Sterner, secretary.

A deeper interest in current world affairs was instilled in members of the Junior Historical Society, Military History, International Relations, and Government Clubs.

Fired by enthusiasm and by an interest in research, members of the Junior Historical Society broadened their knowledge of Indiana history through field trips, lectures, films, and discussions. As an affiliate of the Indiana State Historical Association, this chapter sponsored the state meeting of the organization in the spring.

Other students who were just as enthusiastic about the subject they explored were members of the Military History Club. They studied primary military operations of the past and discussed the causes, nature and probable effects of the important military movements of today. Through prominent speakers from the federal, state, and local levels of government the members of the Government Club gained a more comprehensive understanding of the functions of government in our world today. The International Relations Club was set up as a source of information for students to acquire knowledge about the world we live in and our relations with other nations. Student panels headlined discussions on foreign policy and faculty members spoke on special areas of their field.

Representing the Military History Club as officers and planners of the group's activities are Gregg Hutchinson, vice-president; Steve Cracraft, sergeant-at-arms; Jim Olive, secretary; and David Props, president.

Travel possibilities opened to club members

Boys and girls filled with curiosity about other countries, both here and in outer space, found a common interest in the American Field Service, Travel, and Air Space Clubs. Guest speakers, slides, and movies provided informative programs.

Those particularly concerned with people of the world formed the membership of AFS. The group sponsored exchange students in cooperation with the American Field Service program. Students from other countries, while attending school here, were exposed to life in the United States. As a result they more clearly understood modern American affairs. On the other hand, American students who were selected to study abroad came home with a deeper appreciation of the culture of countries and people they visited.

Also taking an interest in distant places were the members of the Travel and the Air Space Clubs. One was earthbound; the other planned journeys into limitless space. The primary purpose of the Travel Club concerned the possibility of future trips to the countries studied. Air Space club members investigated interstellar travel and discussed the eventual means of achieving it.

Brochures, leaflets, and pamphlets disseminate information about countries open to junior students interested in going abroad as part of the American Field Service program.

As an aid to determining color combinations, Clothing Club officers Brenda Walton, Marcia Darling, Jan Fehsenfeld, and Sharon Scobee employ "color keys."

Foods, Clothing Club

To teach members to plan well-balanced meals was one of the main objectives of the Foods Club sponsored by Miss Kleifgen. The value of nutritional content in menus and the importance of having a proper diet were stressed. The girls often traded recipes and ideas on kitchen efficiency. In addition they saw films and heard lectures on the preparation of foods, which helped them to better understand the role of a housewife. During the holidays, a demonstration of cookie decoration encouraged the girls to try it on their own. Easter brought out hidden talents as evidenced by gayly colored eggs painted and displayed by club members.

Programs in the two Clothing Clubs sparked an interest in the selection and proper care of clothes. Mrs. Stout and Miss Staffieri, co-sponsors, taught members how to knit, a skill that produced many beautiful sweaters. The Planning Committee arranged for programs that included guest speakers and demonstrations.

Clothing Club officers Kay Brinkerhoff, secretary-treasurer; Kathy Rogers, president, and Charlotte Bolles, sergeant-at-arms, learn how to "knit and purl" in making sweaters.

In four North Central clubs, membership is limited to those persons who have earned the privilege. Boys of high caliber are asked to join the Key Club, a service organization sponsored by Mr. Richards. During the year the group regularly organizes a car wash, a mixer, and stand and coat check concessions at games.

Mu Alpha Theta, National Forensics, and the National Honor Society are honorary organizations.

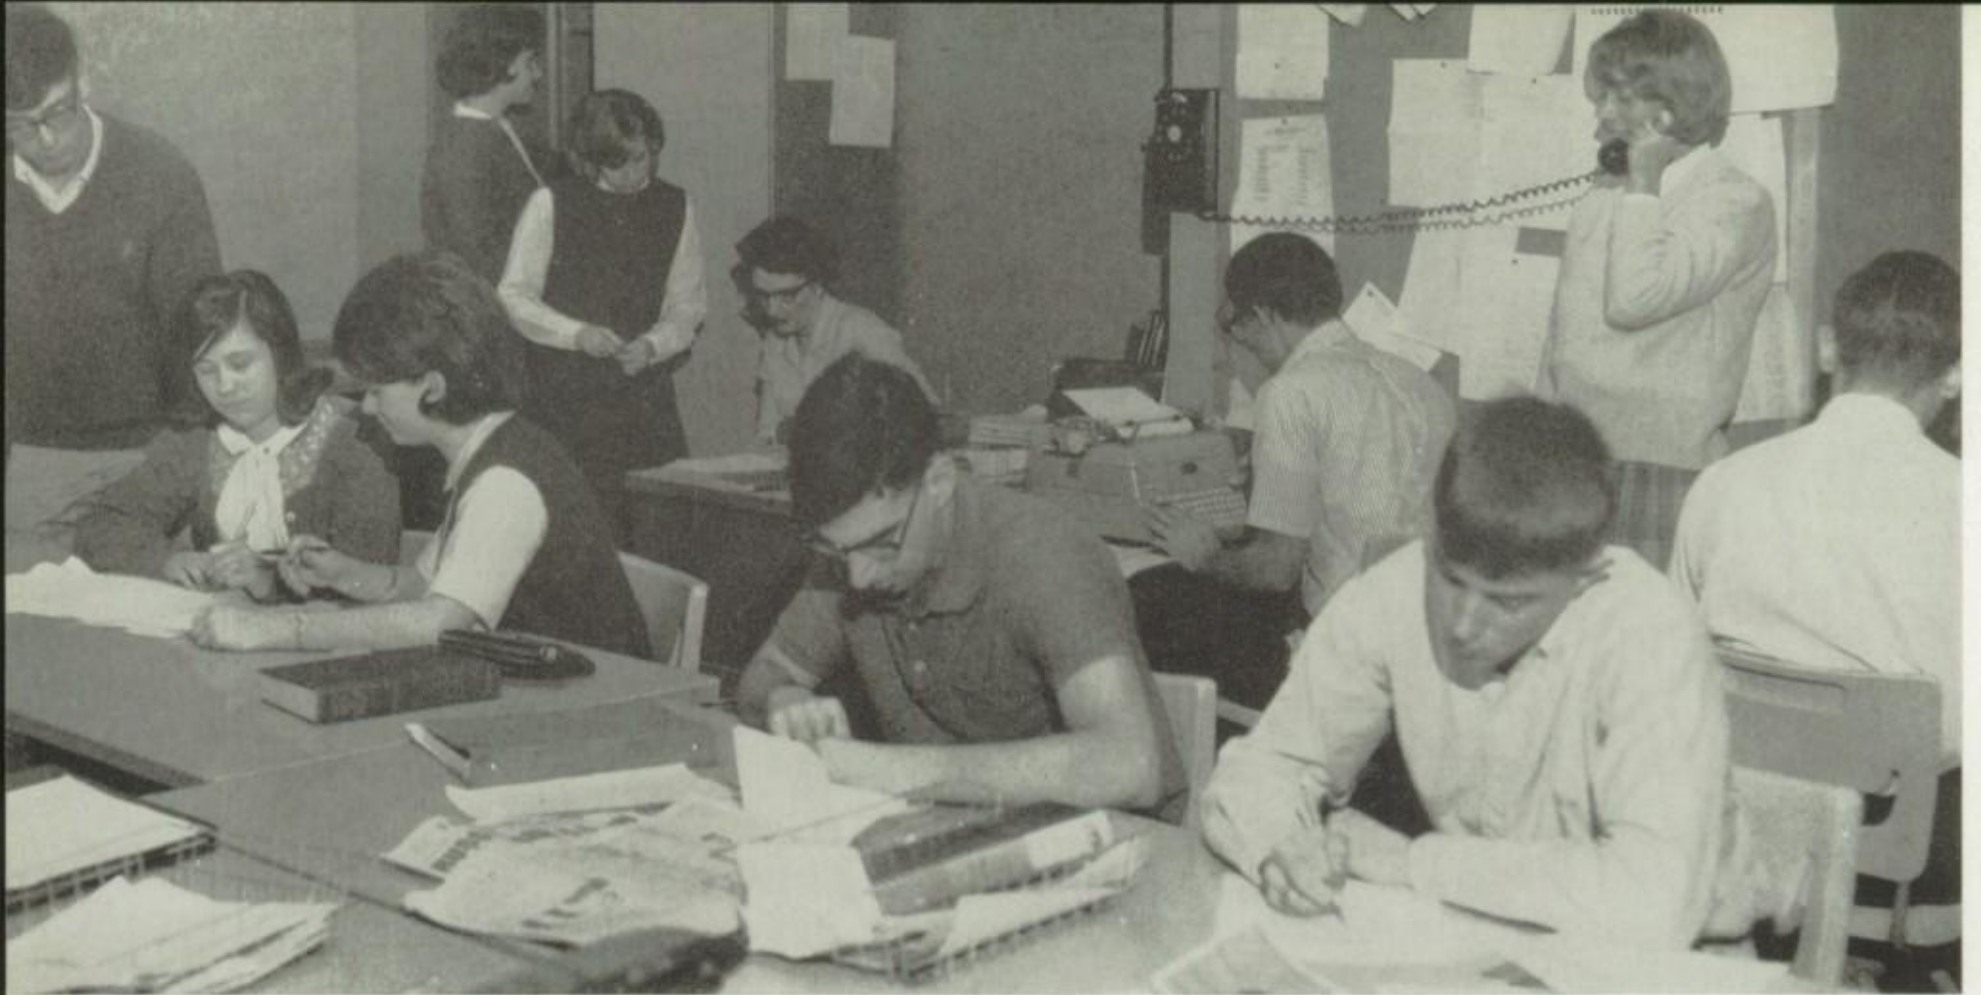

Mu Alpha Theta promotes a keener interest in mathematics, develops sound scholarship in the subject, and teaches high school students to really enjoy mathematics. National Forensics membership is earned by participation in forensics contests and by active membership in the Indiana High School Forensic Association. National Honor Society membership selection is based upon scholarship, character, leadership, and service.

The NORTHERN LIGHTS staff puts in long hours before the next edition can go to press. Sponsored by Mrs. Kline, the bi-weekly newspaper is a co-ordinated production of reporters and editors.

This year marked the peak of an editorial training program begun several years ago by the Northerner and Northern Lights staffs. Such a program insures that an experienced staff will always be available to supervise publication.

Sophomores try out for the staff in the spring, and if selected become full-fledged apprentices the following fall. They are trained by senior editors composed of the previous year's novices. The smooth coordination between learners and teachers helped last year's Northerner staff bring home the All-American and Medalist awards for their historical record of the 1963-1964 school season, and helped this year's Northern Lights staff win top awards.

NORTHERNER SENIOR EDITORS include Lesley Baker, Sherry Catlin, Bob Faust, Abby Slater, Sheryl Stern, Pam Sollars, Marcia Stackhouse, John Harris, Bill Hebert, and Pam Crocker. This is the Honor Administrative Staff.

As a part of the training program in the Graphic Arts Club, Steve Harris learns the required techniques in operating the printing press.

Both boys and girls

To gain practical experience in the industrial arts, members of the Graphic Arts Service Club, the Boys' and Girls' Industrial Arts Clubs, and the Drafting Club spent the year crafting projects from paper, plastic, wood, and metal.

Service to the school kept the Graphic Arts Service Club busy. Its members supplied programs for football and basketball games and Career Day, and made posters for the Military Ball and several plays. In addition, the boys were allowed to do printing for themselves.

Boys' Industrial Arts Club people made projects for other classes or for personal use. This increased their skill in using shop materials and processes with which many of them were already familiar. Girls' Industrial Arts Club members, however, had to learn the use of the equipment before they could begin their work.

Drafting Club members were primarily boys enrolled in drafting courses who wanted extra time to pursue their own projects.

New members of the journalism honorary, Quill and Scroll, wait in line for their induction into the society at a formal initiation held for twenty students in February.

Abby Slater and Bob Davidson display trophies they won for layout and sports writing at the Journalism Press Day.

Promoting the cause of journalism and upholding the high standards of Quill and Scroll International, motivated North Central's Richard Brier Chapter of Quill and Scroll. A formal initiation held in the middle of the year increased the membership, drawn from both publications, to 20 persons. At the first all-city annual Journalism Press Day, sponsored by Arlington High School, Abby Slater and Bob Davidson won trophies, and Bob Foust and Phil Jenkins were given certificates. Mrs. Keilman is the Quill and Scroll sponsor.

Interest in journalism was sparked by the Journalism Club, a combination of past years' Press and News Clubs. A planning board brought in speakers to discuss all phases of journalistic work. Russ Durbin of the News, and Lloyd Walton, photographer, were two of these.

Photography Club members discussed techniques, processes and problems. Movies and slides specifically demonstrated such things as the effectiveness of angle shots and the diversity of human interest photos. In-club competition increased the competitive spirit. One of their speakers was Tommy Wadelton of the Star magazine, who told about interesting assignments he had been given.

Geology Club officers, Doug Jones, secretary; Bob Brown, vice-president; and Dave Glass, president, examine specimens from their rock collection.

Research stimulated in Math, Science Clubs

Science Reading Club officers Wes Jones, Al Vaughn, and Karen Kyger plan invitations to guest speakers.

The inquiring minds of persons enrolled in both the History of Math and the Slide Rule Clubs prompted them to seek an understanding of mathematical mysteries. Membership was open to all boys and girls with a keen interest in learning more than the regular classroom experience could provide.

Those participating in inter-club slide rule contests discovered that practice formed the keynote to proficiency. Members of the History of Math Club probed into the stories behind the development of problems, theories, and proofs. Through research reports, the biographies of famous mathematicians, who had been only briefly mentioned during class work, were now studied in depth.

Inquisitive students of science delved into the intricate aspects of the subject as a project of the Science Reading and Geology Clubs. One or more science credits was a prerequisite for membership in the Science Reading Club. This group sponsored guest speakers and attended various seminars. Members of the Geology Club compared one another's mineral, gem, and fossil collections and used their meetings for a convenient time to exchange specimens and give special reports.

As part of their research on the lives and works of famous mathematicians, officers of History of Math Club, Gary Ford, Polly Han, and Doug Gillespie, examine various pertinent textbooks.

Slide Rule Club officers Grant Gaalema, Karen Kyger, and David Maltzman practice the proper techniques on the enlarged model.

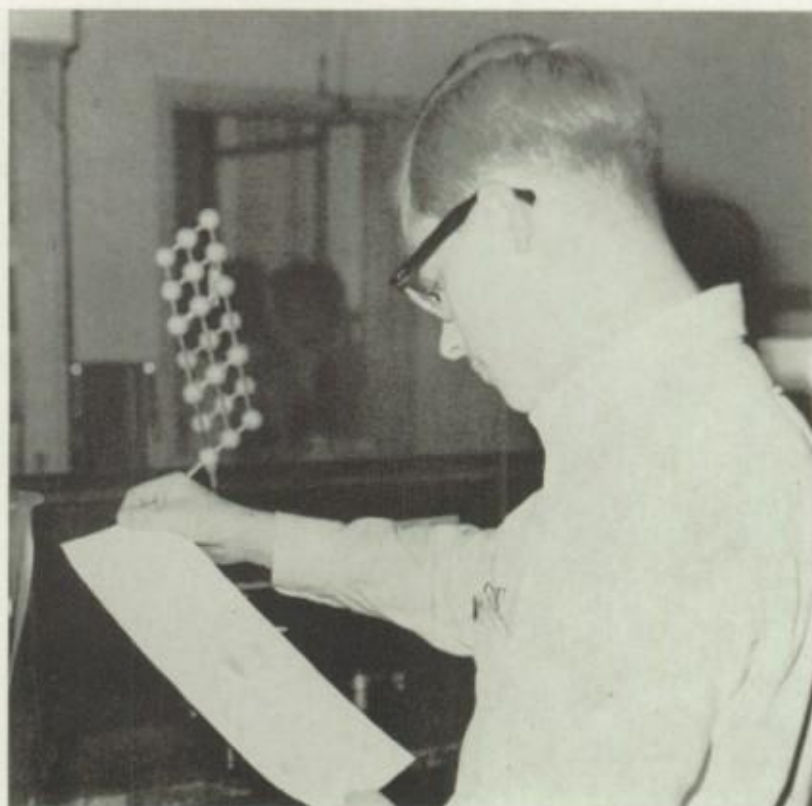

The raising of tropical fish, microscopy, and natural photography made interesting subjects for Biology Club members to study. Various field trips were preliminary preparations for the members identifying specimens for the department's collection.

Problems in all fields of science were given thought and guidance by the Science Projects Club members and sponsors. Many of the members enrolled as preparation for the local, regional, and national science contests.

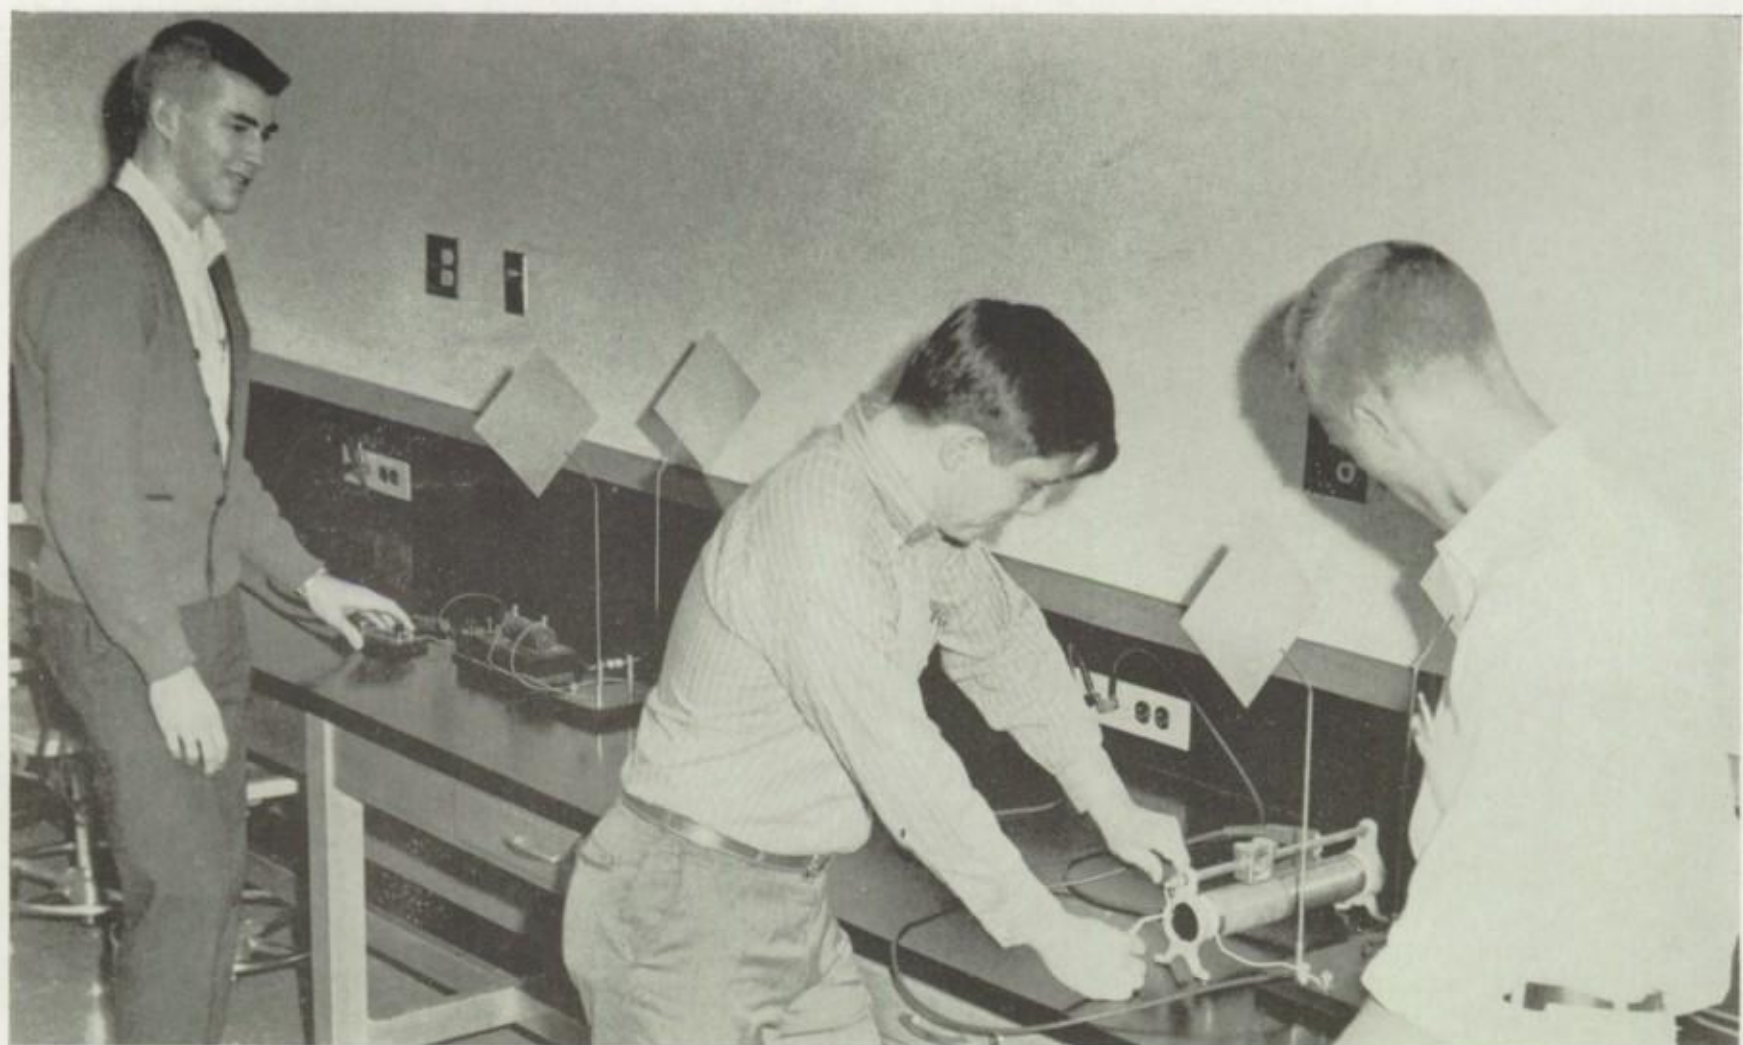

In the Aquarium Club members became acquainted with procedures in setting up a balanced aquarium, the breeding habits of aquatic animals, and the important relationship between plants and animals.

Demonstrations and experiments with electronic devices and a survey of electronic theory kept Electronic Club members busy. Qualified guest speakers brought them up to date with explanations of the latest electronic equipment.

An opportunity to share songs and learn musical techniques brought members of the Folk Music Club together. Guitars, mandolins, and homemade instruments accompanied the singers in an assembly presented before the student body.

Using bells imported from Holland, the Bell Choir appeared in a variety of entertainment for the school, the community, and outside organizations. During the Christmas season, the Bell Choir cut a record, "Music in the Air," in collaboration with the Girls' Ensemble, Madrigals, and Music Men. Through the divisions of folk music, Broadway show tunes, jazz, and heavy secular selections, these groups developed new tastes in the field of music. Performances on radio, television, and at school-civic programs furthered public relations between North Central and the community.

In its second year, the orchestra won first division honors in Class "A" competition. The rapidly advancing group was invited to present programs at the Blind School and at the Butler School of Music. The Concert Band participated in the annual Band-O-Rama and presented assemblies throughout the year. As a marching band, the group performed at home football games and in the "500" Festival Parade.

By invitation, the Counterpoints entertained at the NEA Convention in Seattle, Washington last summer. They also presented programs at luncheons and dinners as the guests of church groups, hotels, and country clubs. The A Cappella Choir won first place award in the 25th Annual County Choral Festival. The group participates annually in the Spring Festival and the Christmas program.

Precision marching and accurate marksmanship are the goals to be reached by the National Defense Cadet Corps. Cadet Captain Bruce Woodard headed the forty-nine member battalion whose theme for indoor formations was South East Asia, Veit Nam and guerilla warfare.

Military precision drill used as a competitive sport developed physical and mental accuracy of the drill team. Lieutenant Barry Schuchman commanded this group which performed for various events such as the Butler Invitational, Armed Forces Day, and the American Legion meet.

The rifle team's many activities ranged from the fall City Tournament to the Fifth Army Match in the spring. The team was Sectional Champions this year. Raising and lowering the flag in front of the school and presenting the flag at home football and basketball games were the duties of the four-member color guard.

Activities in which the members of the NDCC joined together as a unit included directing traffic at football and basketball games, serving as escorts for fall festival queen candidates, and planning the annual Military Ball. Under the supervision of Captain Wilhelm, the cadets and sponsors organized the dance, "Apple Blossom Time."

group, and club service

The Audio-Visual Club, the Senior Girls' League, and the student office assistants continued in their service to the school while another group, the Gymnastics Club, opened a new field to students.

The Senior Girls' League gave service to the school community through various activities. The girls' main project was the Mother-Daughter Tea held in May. The 175 members were led by a planning committee of six girls and Mrs. Brodt who replaced Mrs. Stokesberry at the end of the first semester. Under the guidance of Mr. Shulik, the A.V.T. Club gave informal instruction as to the functions of the audio-visual program in the school. The student assistants in the general, guidance, and attendance offices helped the administration by delivering passes and running errands for them. The 85 members of the Gymnastics Club learned about the total background of gymnastics other than actual stunts, and attended meets held with other schools.

Dave Reynolds uses the "Light Box" to examine transparencies for the AVT office.

Centralites serve community, prepare for careers

As they enter the doors of Nora Grade School, members of the Future Teachers Club, Cherrie Pedlow, Lee Barber, and Judy Orr, anticipate the adjustments they will have to make and the experiences to be met in their new roles.

Public service started early for Red Cross members whose meetings were dedicated to worthwhile projects such as making tray and party favors to brighten the rooms of hospitals and children's homes. Working closely with the local Red Cross Chapter, members became involved in a project of an "Overseas Chest."

Three other club groups were also interested in helping their community but their actual service would come later, after preliminary training. Future Business Leaders of America Club guided students by giving them information about careers.

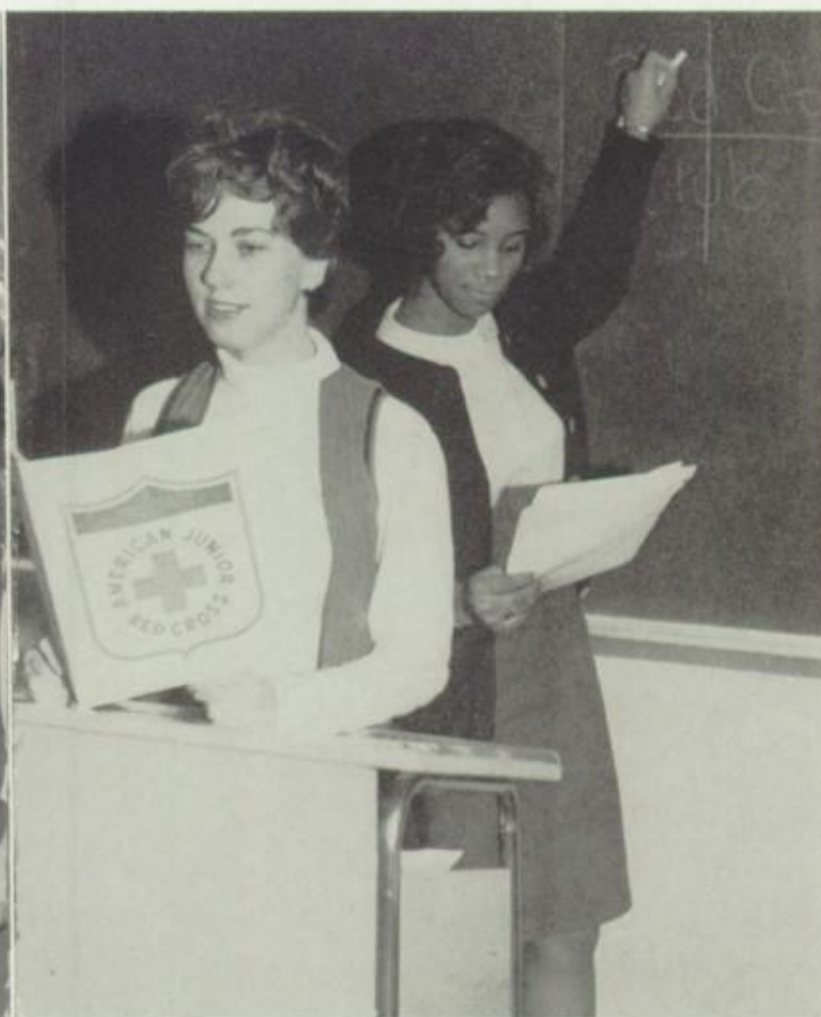

The object of the Future Nurses Club was to teach students about personal and community health. Simple procedures for setting broken limbs, taking temperatures, and administering first aid for shock prepared the girls to meet emergency situations.

Girls in the Future Teachers of America Club explored the teaching profession, its role in society, and the variety of job offerings in this field.

Preparing programs for FBLA are officers Chris Linn, Dave Billingsley, Dave Harden, Jill Harris, and Libbi Uvanni.

Future Nurses officers include Ann Reel, Mary O'Conner, Linda McCollum, and Chris Hawhee. In this club the girls gain experience in the use of equipment.

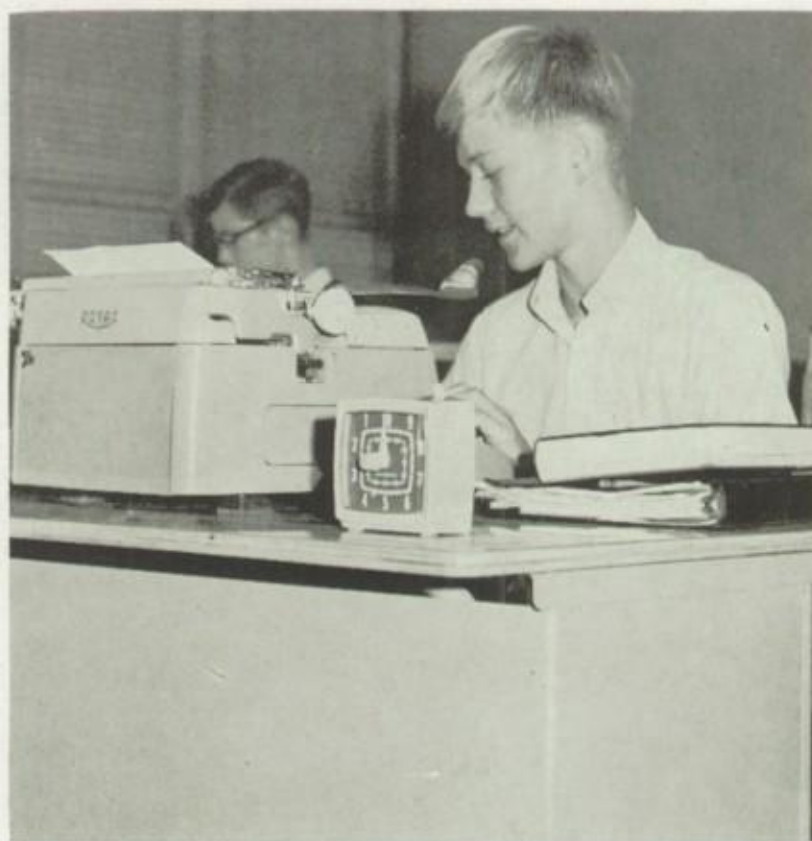

Planning programs for the Red Cross Club involves discussion between the officers Joan Gillespie, president, and Gwen Dixon, vice-president.

A problem faced by many students, that of not having extra time to spend on improving typing skills and on typing class assignments, was solved by the Review Typing Clubs, sponsored by Miss Pickard and Miss Mercer. On the other hand, those enrolled in the Beginning Typing Clubs, sponsored by Mr. Cruzan and Mrs. Carnell, found concentration helped them learn a skill that could be used for personal work ranging from manuscripts to letter typing. Since the clubs were conducted as classes, no officers were installed.

Competition was keen among the various chess clubs sponsored by Mr. Campbell. Members learned that being able to concentrate intensely is a skill that can be transferred to other activities. They found that each move required skill and logic. Beginning Chess Club stressed the fundamentals of the game while Advanced Chess Club provided spirited opposition for accomplished players. The Chess Team represented North Central in many inter-state matches.

Concentration, skill, and speed add up to a good score for Bob Wente during a timed typing exercise.

Whether he is a beginner, like Howard Schuff, or an advanced player, chess takes a person's entire attention.

Centralites unite through active participation in ATHLETICS

Athletics at North Central involve 377 boys who participate in 9 varsity sports; 850 part-time athletes who enjoy the intramural programs; 13 coaches who devote long hours after school; and, of course, the cheering Centralites who fill the stands. Enthusiasm reached a high point this year as Panther teams captured the Sectional and County Championships in cross country, the Sectional Championship in wrestling, and second place in the County in football and baseball.

After spilling three potential tacklers during a powerful run toward the goal, Tri-captain Steve Cracraft plummets to the ground, a foot short of his mark.

A pass fired by quarterback Rick Wittenbraker proves too hot to handle for Chris Slaughter as he grabs for the pigskin.

Spirited Gridders have roller coaster season

"One of the hardest working and most spirited squads in Panther history!" stated head coach Byron Weaver about the 1964 Football Team.

The season opener on the home field pitted the Panthers against West Lafayette. The adversaries scored twice before North Central could break into the scoring column. Steve Cracraft's run up the middle, just as the game ended, gave the Panther's their only touchdown. Pete Reilly's extra point gave North Central 7 points to their opponent's 14.

Noblesville and Central clashed in game number two. Although bent on avenging last year's 39-0 drubbing, the fired-up Panthers were held to a scoreless deadlock.

Another defeat, this time at the hands of Broad Ripple, was the last of Central's losing streak. The Panthers led at the half, 9 to 6, but Ripple pulled away late in the game and won 26 to 9.

North Central's long-overdue first victory came when the Panthers upset county rival Ben Davis, 14 to 7. Steve Cracraft led the Panther attack by scoring two touchdowns and Pete Reilly booted two extra points.

The next game, against county contender Warren Central, resulted in a 6 to 6 tie. Dean Klink furnished the Central touchdown.

Game number six with Howe coincided with North Central's third annual Football Festival. Early in the contest Rick Wittenbraker connected with Steve Cracraft on an 80-yard pass play. But Central's lead was short-lived, as Howe scored twice and led 14 to 7, which somewhat dampened the enthusiasm of the crowd as they watched Tri-captain Dean Klink crown Queen Sheri Cravens during the half. When play resumed, even the magic formula  $p^2 + s^2 = \frac{V}{H^2}$  (Powerful Panthers plus Spirited Students equals Victory over Howe's Hornets), a slogan widely advertised prior to the Football Festival, could not stop the onslaught. Howe won 19 to 7.

On the neutral Broad Ripple field, Central got back into the winning column by defeating Arlington 28 to 19. The Golden Knights led twice in the game, but each time the Panthers came back to take the lead. Steve Cracraft paced the gridders with three touchdowns and Grant Gaalema scored the other.

A trip to the home stadium of county foe Lawrence Central proved fruitful as the Panthers topped the Bears 20 to 14. Steve Cracraft again led the attack with two touchdowns and Dan Stauber furnished the other.

Central's final contest in Panther Stadium, on Senior Night, saw Northwest slip past the gridders 20 to 18 in a closely fought battle.

The season ended with North Central and Warren Central tied for second in the county. More honors came to the Panthers with the selection of the All-County Teams. Dick Shulte, Dean Klink, and Dan Jobes made the first string and Mark Albertson, Steve Cracraft, Chuck Harrison, Steve Jordan, Cliff Sanders, Bud Stickle, and Rick Wittenbraker received honorable mentions.

The locker room echoes with sounds of cheering and jubilation after the first win of the season over Ben Davis.

Although they finished the season with a 3-5 record, the Reserve football boys gained tremendous experience against many County opponents. They hope this will carry over into the varsity squad. The goal of Coaches Friedersdorf and Schiffli was to develop within this sophomore-dominated group the basic football fundamentals of blocking, tackling, and ball handling as well as a sense of sportsmanship and team spirit. All of these are necessary to ensure varsity material for next year.

Sectional titles in perfect season.

Improving on last year's excellent 9-3 record in dual, triangular, and quadrangular meets, the 1964 Cross Country Team posted a 13-0 seasonal score. In addition to this accomplishment, the squad captured firsts in the Broad Ripple Invitational, the County Tournament, the Sectional meet, and a fourth in the Regional Tournament. In the Shortridge Invitational, Central topped seventeen out of twenty-two competitors to finish fifth. Ted Wood, Tim McClenny, and Steve Sellmer won individual medals for their high placement. Another large meet, the Scecina Invitational, saw the harriers finish second.

Senior Steve Sellmer and junior Tim McClenny paced the team in individual honors. Steve's first place finish in the sectional meet proved instrumental in the Panther's winning the championship. He also finished as first man for North Central in the regionals. Tim brought more honor to the squad when he set a new school record of 9:46.6 for the two mile run, which is 15.4 seconds faster than the previous record.

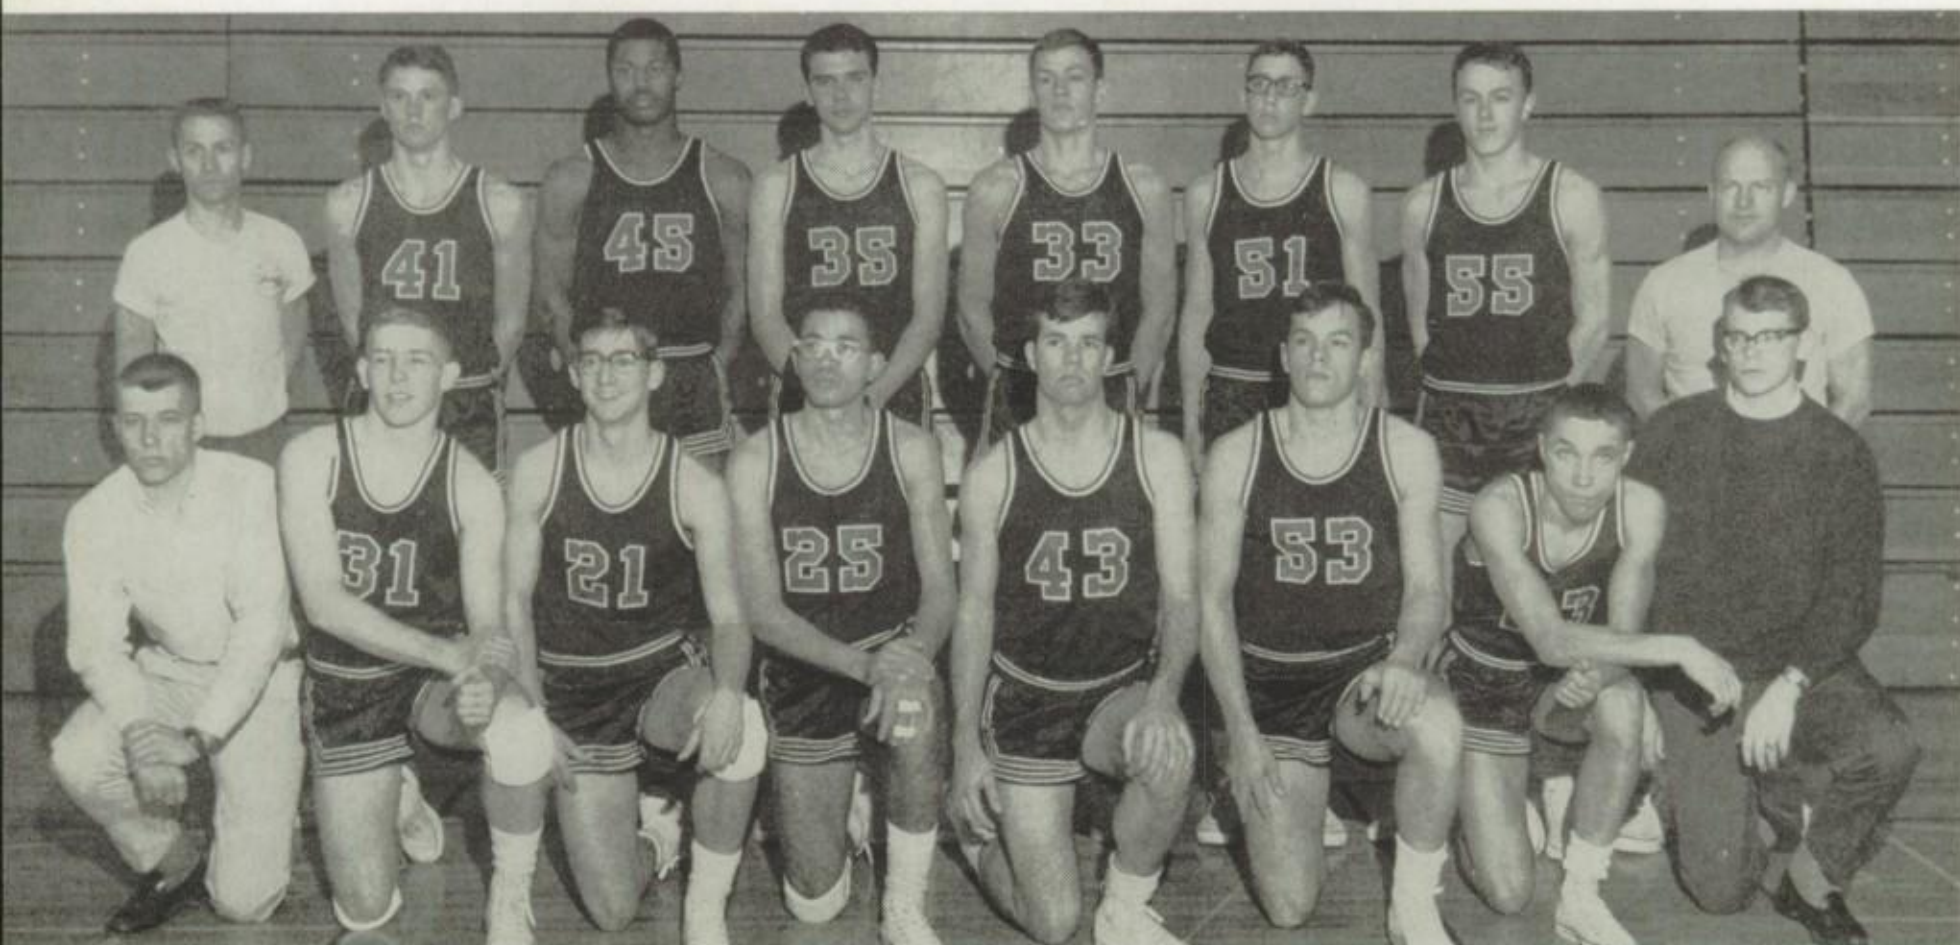

Bob Pyle leads the pack as they trample through the underbrush on one of the year's most challenging courses.

Lickliter, Mark Miller, Dave Weeks, Scott Bridgford, Mike Miller, Bob Davidson, Rick Wittenbraker, and Coach Marvin Wood. Of these sectional and county semi-finalists, six are graduating seniors.

During a brief time-out, Coach Marvin Wood, surrounded by varsity players R. Wittenbraker, Terrell, Fields, Bridgeford, and Kiovsky, discusses the opponents' defense.

Senior Scott Bridgeford and veteran letter-winners Rick Wittenbraker, Wilson Terrell, Dave Weeks, and Mike Miller spurred the 1964-65 basketball team to a 15-9 season. The squad, in the words of Head Coach Marvin Wood, "... was as strong or stronger than any squad in North Central's history, including the County Championship Team of 1960-61."

Dave Weeks, in his third year of varsity ball, broke two school records by snatching 292 rebounds and scoring 408 points during the season. He also led the squad with an average of 17 points per game. The other Panther to play three years on the varsity, Wilson Terrell, led in the free throw department by sinking 55 to 74 attempts during the season. Wilson, along with senior Mike Miller and junior Rick Wittenbraker, tied a school record of 60 "assists." Another school record fell at the season's close as the squad grabbed a total of 1050 rebounds in competition.

Netmen marked as one of school's finest

Mike Miller frantically attempts to pass around a Southport foe to teammate Tom Wittenbraker.

Scott Bridgeford prepares to toss the ball to Wilson Terrell as an opponent falls against him.

Hoping to draw a personal foul, Dave Weeks pauses an instant to catch his opponent off guard.

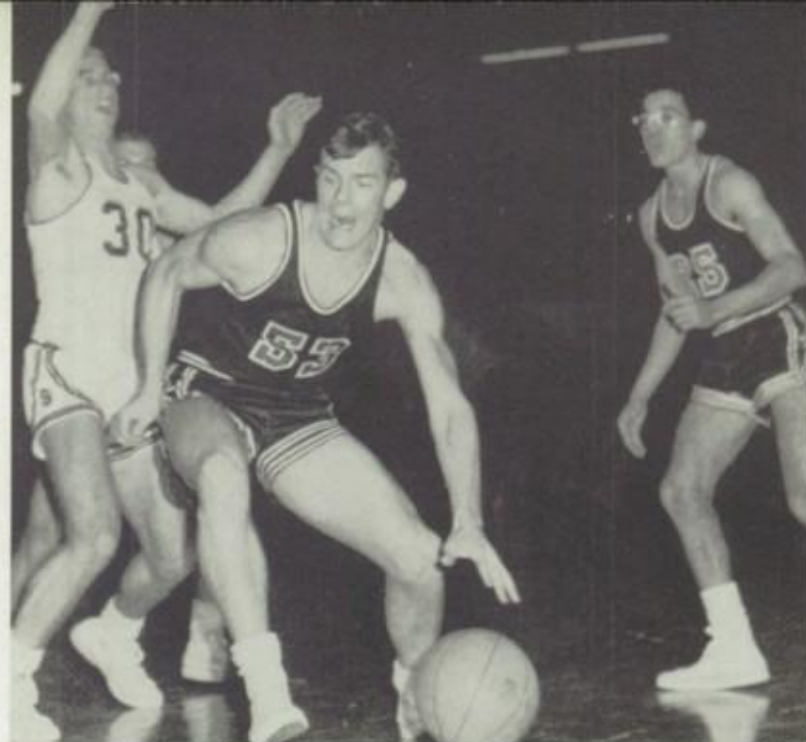

Wilson Terrell's flashy style of play dazes the opposition as he bangs in two more points for North Central.

North Central's Reserve basketball team, piloted by Coach Lickliter, finished with a 12-8 season. The squad defeated several rivals, including Carmel, Lawrence Central, Speedway, Warren Central, Manual and Ben Davis.

Midway in the season the crew proved its potential skill by topping two teams to win the four-team County Reserve Invitational Tournament held at Lawrence Central. The squad also showed its dexterity by averaging 49 points per game, against 42 opponent points.

"This is one of the best Reserve teams we have had in years," commented Coach Lickliter. "Mr. Wood should have several fine boys to work with next year."

While exhibiting superior ball control, Junior Rick Wittenbraker drives past a Southport defender.

Five returning lettermen provided a solid base for the 1964-1965 wrestling squad. As the remaining varsity spots were filled, hopes for a successful season ran high and were quickly satisfied with five consecutive wins. However, the team was hit hard by the loss of a hotly contested County Championship to Southport at mid-season. This defeat was soon avenged by a string of six victories, among which was the 23-19 win over rival Arlington, the high point of an 11-0 campaign.

After capturing a home quadrangular meet, Central grapplers went on to take the Sectional title and were Regional runners-up. Senior Bill Bogle advanced to the State finals, where he was edged out by one point in the final match.

Coach Keith Farrand has great expectations for next year's team. Wrestlers advancing from the Reserves, who posted a 10-1 record, should easily complement the four varsity returnees.

North Central's newest sport, Gymnastics, grew rapidly in popularity. The fifteen boys comprising the varsity team had, in the words of Coach Noel Merrick, "Superior ability and they accomplished more in one year than most gymnasts do in two." He regretted, however, that he did not have more time to help develop their skills.

In their first year, the gymnasts posted a 4-3 winning record, defeating Wabash, Walkarusa, and Southport, twice. They also placed sixth individually in the Regional meet. Mr. Merrick commented, emphatically, "This year has been more than successful!"

Although the squad will be losing seniors Steve Chenoweth, Dan Nehrling, and Rick Howard, the team shows much promise for next season. Besides returning lettermen Steve Kafoure, John Wilson, Pat Brown, and Dick Fatout, Coach Merrick is also looking to Gary Gardner and Lee Runciman. He pointed out, however, that there are several open spots in tumbling, high bar, and trampoline to be filled for the coming campaign.

In perfect form, gymnast Dick Fatout executes a handstand on the parallel bars.

Practicing his tournament routine, Steve Kafoure works on timing and continuity on the sidehorse.

This speedy Panther raises a cloud of dust as he safely steals second base and moves into scoring position.

Hard work and desire paid off for the 1964 Baseball Team. After a weak start, the North Central nine caught fire and finished with a 7-7 record. The team's improvement was illustrated by its second place finish in the County Tournament, when victories over Speedway and Pike advanced the Panthers to the finals where they were topped by Southport, 4-3.

Dean Klink, one of four returning lettermen, brought more honors to the squad with his election to the newly-formed All-County Baseball Team. He received more votes than any other candidate and was the first to be unanimously selected.

Improved Diamondmen place second in county; Trackmen wipe two records from books

Broad jumper Steve Sellmer demonstrates another of his athletic skills; besides track, he also runs cross country.

By capturing four out of six dual meets, placing second in two triangular meets, and finishing third in the county tournament last spring, the 1964 track team gave its new head, Coach Charles Riley, a first year to be proud of. The cindermen also bagged second place in the sectional tournament and ninth place in the regional tournament. Senior shot-putter Steve Kagle's advancement to the state finals ended the season on a happy note.

Dan Swift gets in some pre-season practice before varsity tryouts begin for the '64 season.

A record of ten wins and six losses was turned in by the varsity tennis team at the completion of the 1964 season coached by John Shirley.

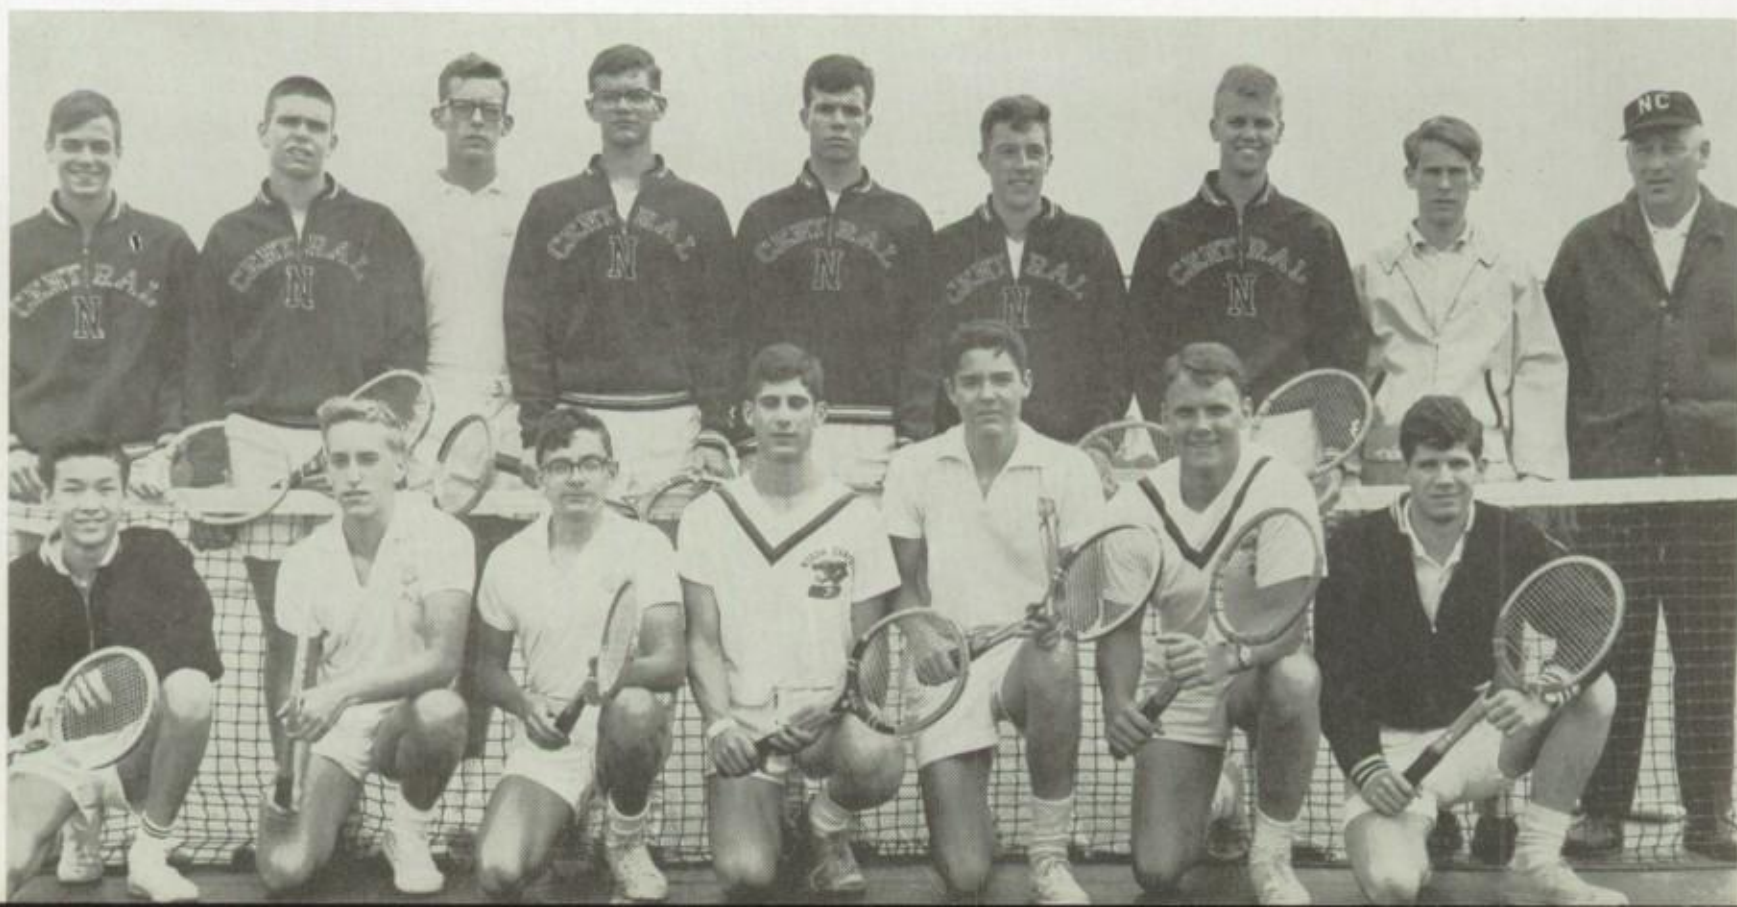

The season started with a win over Kokomo, but the squad was then downed by Lafayette and Tech. To avenge these losses, the boys defeated their next eight opponents, only to have their winning streak broken by long-time foes, Shortridge and Broad Ripple. The Panthers made a strong comeback from this blow by beating Warren Central, but ended the season with losses to Park and Southport.

Varsity members honored with letters were Bill Gambill, Jeff Enkema, John Hurlbut, Dan Swift, and Bill Lee. Coach John Shirley was able to call on a strong team in '65, since last season's reserves recorded twelve wins and no losses. Senior Dan Swift and Junior Bill Lee were counted on to spur the squad for a successful 1965 season.

'64 campaigns.

Since superior form is important in breaking par, Doug Carden practices his follow-through diligently.

The golf team amassed an impressive score of eighteen wins and three losses, which was a particularly satisfying record for Coach Norman Harner's last year of active coaching.

An early season surge of eight Panther victories came before Lebanon emerged victorious in the ninth game. Another win, over Speedway, preceded defeat at the hands of Manual. The linksmen then rallied to conquer nine of their last ten opponents.

In tournament play, the team placed second in the county tournament and seventh in the regional tournament. They also finished second in the University High School Invitational Tournament at Bloomington, where they came up against some of the toughest competition in the state.

The squad was centered on returning letterman Bob Bly, who led the team in individual honors with an average of 80. Close behind was senior Bill Myers with an average of 81, followed by Randy Reifers and Bill Peelle, both averaging 82.

Sportsmanship is this club's by-word.

Receiving less glory, but contributing just as much as the athletes do to the Panther cause, the twelve coaches, five varsity, and five reserve cheerleaders put in another creditable year.

Two new members joined the coaching staff this year. Mr. Gish was appointed to assist Head Wrestling Coach Farrand, thus giving the latter more time to work with individuals. Coach Merrick led the newly-formed gymnastics team to an enviable first year record. Also, Coach Riley advanced from assistant to Head Track Coach to guide the 1964 squad to another successful season. He replaced Coach Weaver who had moved up to Head Football Coach.

Central's "Pantherettes" (the varsity and reserve cheerleaders) led yells during the football and basketball seasons. The varsity was chosen the preceding spring by a panel of five teachers voting with the Student and Class Councils. The reserves were selected in October.

Dean Klink, president; Mike Miller, vice-president; Steve Cracraft, secretary; and Dan Stauber, treasurer, led the Lettermen's Club in its many activities.

Intramurals offer

"With almost one thousand students participating in twenty-six different events, I feel that North Central can boast of having one of the best Intramural Programs in any high school in the country," Mr. Tom Bradley, Head of the department, commented.

"Many sponsors from other high schools have studied us and used our plans as a model for organizing their own Intramural Programs," he continued.

New activities added this year are boys' handball, boys' weightlifting, girls' handball, and girls' gymnastics. Events as varied as girls' archery, girls' softball, boys' horseshoes, and boys' table tennis are included. Tournaments are scheduled in tennis, touch football, and volleyball.

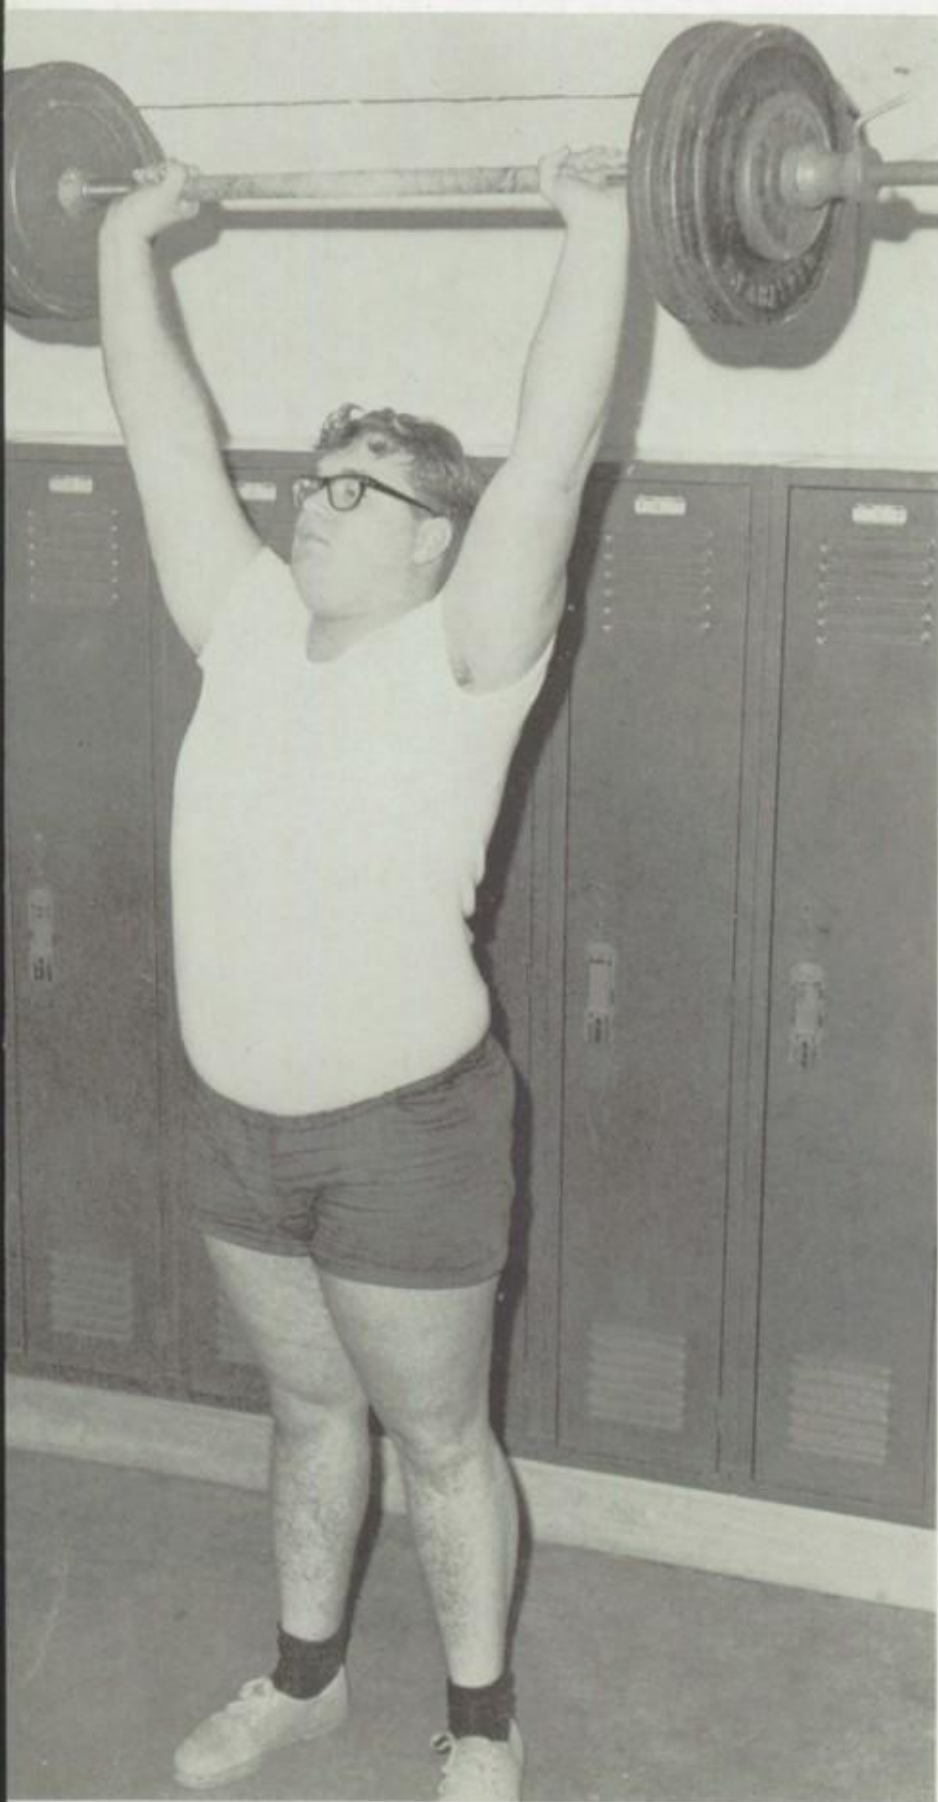

Basketball again proved the most popular sport with over five hundred participants, necessitating the formation of four different leagues.

A "ball's-eye view" catches I-M Tennis Champions Gary Baugh and Sally Appel off guard during warm up.

varied activities

John Shoemaker doing a military press exercise raises 180 pounds as a warm-up for the Intramural Weightlifting program at the stadium.

Colt 45, Rick Cockerille, has a "hair-raising experience" in the finals against champion Bush Beavers for the Intramural basketball title for 1964-65.

Practicing with the bow and arrow, archery winners Joann Hawkins and Ann Butz take aim on an indoor range.

The life of North Central lies in its PEOPLE

People at North Central comprise the crowds of students that fill the halls and classrooms from eight o'clock every morning until long after the three-thirty bell. They also include administrators, teachers, secretaries, and librarians, all working toward a common goal, the education of young people who enter North Central as sophomores and graduate three years later. All efforts are focused on preparing each Centralite for his role as a citizen of a modern world.

Complicated duties ar

It is frequently said that the faculty members and the administrators of North Central form a solid block of people dedicated to furthering the knowledge of the 2,550 young Centralites. Mr. Eiche, who dispatches his many responsibilities as principal in a competent and efficient manner, is aided by two assistant principals, Dr. Bagby and Mr. Cloncs. Mr. Bugher, director of student activities, coordinates the club program. Working together, and with teachers and students, the administrators maintain North Central's traditionally high standards.

The tremendous job of regulating the ten elementary schools, three junior high schools, and one high school in Washington Township, falls to Superintendent of Schools, Mr. Light. Mr. McKenzie, formerly Mr. Light's assistant, left his post this year to become Superintendent of Schools in Marion, Indiana. He was replaced by Mr. Evans, former principal of Eastwood Junior High School.

In his third year as principal, Mr. Milo Eiche successfully heads North Central, which is rated as one of the nation's outstanding high schools.

William Bugher, director of student activities, and Dr. Geraldine Bagby and Eugene Cloncs, assistant principals, share administrative responsibilities with the principal, Mr. Eiche.

ably handled by Administrative personnel

Although Mr. Light regretted receiving a letter of resignation from Mr. McKenzie, he was delighted to hear of the latter's promotion.

Members of the School Board are J. Everett Light, superintendent of schools; Donald G. Wilson, treasurer; William G. Mashaw, secretary; Sol Blickman, member; Walter J.

Nolte, president; Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, Mr. Light's secretary; and Carter B. Tharp, vice-president. The school board holds its meetings twice a month.

Cramming many activities into their time after school, on weekends, and on vacations, members of the English Department have interests ranging from Mr. Lewis' antique cars and motorcycles to Mrs. Ferguson's camping with her family. Horseback riding is a hobby of Mrs. Bailey, while Miss Laycock enjoys snow skiing. Mrs. Legg is remodeling an old farm home in her spare time. The first person to have graduated from North Central and to return as a teacher, Miss Nees, finds pleasure in listening to classical music. Traveling is a favorite pastime of many teachers. Mr. Myers works as a guide for a travel agency and, during spring vacation, took a group of fifty Centralites on a tour of Washington, D. C. and New York City. Mrs. Merritt played the leading role in one of the major productions of Booth Tarkington Civic Theater. Another traveler is newly-married Mrs. Rimstidt, who spent last summer in Hawaii. Miss Overman lived in Italy for seven months while attending college.

A great variety of duties fall to librarians Miss Betsy Williams, Miss Ruth Espenlaub, and Mrs. Katherine Wert.

Counselors (seated) Dr. Alice Eagle, Mrs. Isabella Legg, Mrs. Beverly Hubbs, Miss Marybelle Dow, (standing) Phillip Moore, Kenneth Warren, Norman Harner, and William Drake guide North Central students in program and college planning.

Social studies and foreign language classes were often enlivened by teacher-accounts of experiences in foreign lands. Faculty members in these departments have traveled in countries all over the world. During the summer of 1964, Mr. Brown visited Switzerland, Germany, and Austria. Miss Lesley spent two and a half months touring Rome, Sweden, and Norway. A grant took Mr. Wendling to Austria where he studied German at a school in Salzburg. Mr. White's summer was spent in Spain. Mr. Niemeyer was one of fifteen American teachers selected to meet with fifteen Asian teachers at the East-West Center in Honolulu, Hawaii, during the 1963-64 school year. Last summer, he visited Japanese schools. While working on a summer institute, Mrs. Humphreys traveled through countries in the Far East.

Approximately $25,000 worth of audio-visual equipment is cared for by Rubin Shulik.

Mrs. Meriam Cohen, a former substitute, became a regular faculty member at the beginning of the second semester.

The teachers within the Math, Science, and Business Education departments have acquired an admirable amount of scholastic achievements and honors. Masters degrees have been earned by Mr. Lickliter in Educational Administration, Mrs. Cohen and Mr. Coverdale in Education, and Miss Pickard in Science.

Currently Mr. Bateman is in the fourth year of an N. S. F. grant to Indiana University Department of Chemistry, and is making plans to complete a Ph.D.

Crowded into their busy schedule are various activities. Mr. Sharp bowled his first 600 series, while Mrs. Wisner and her husband spend vacation time camping, and Mrs. Keilman works as a struggling authoress with too little time for her hobby.

Mr. Sharp, Mr. Gish, and Mr. Tharp discuss the results of the Ohio State University evaluation of North Central after five long departmental meetings.

Members of the Fine Arts, Practical Arts, and Health Education departments find many opportunities to incorporate hobbies and outside interests into their teaching curriculum. Mrs. Stout and Miss Kleifgen share an interest in sewing, while Mrs. Baringer enjoys gardening and cooking.

Mr. Dennis' and Mr. Laughlin's interests in music extend far outside the classroom. Mr. Dennis has gone on tour as concertmaster for Henry Mancini and Nelson Riddle, and has been the music director and conductor of Footlight Musicals for five years. Mr. Laughlin, who is a part-time pianist in a restaurant, spent two years as a disc jockey in Terre Haute.

Other faculty members spent their summers traveling. Mr. Woodruff and his family visited Quebec. Mr. and Mrs. Stroup toured the Gulf States.

Seniors begin with Mayer

When the Class of '65 walked out of North Central, they left behind them a very successful final year and took with them many happy memories. The first duty of the Senior Class Council was to select class colors. They chose navy blue and light blue. The traditional Senior Bonfire, which came next, was held after the last home football game. Class members munched on hotdogs, drank hot chocolate, and noisily clapped for the ever-popular hootenanny.

This year's seniors engaged in activities outside the school also, giving a Christmas party for youngsters at Mayer Chapel and collecting used clothing for needy families.

The weeks after Christmas vacation were filled with the task of selecting a class gift. The council finally decided to donate part of the money to the Student Council events board and to purchase a trophy case with the remainder.

The busy year came to a tearful but happy conclusion with Baccalaureate and Commencement.

Prom, Spectacular, class rings fill junior year

Juniors, Kemp Shafer and Pam Roberts, admire the first class rings to have round settings.

The class of 1966 opened their junior year with the prospect of many activities awaiting them. First was the election of officers. After listening to speeches by the candidates, juniors cast their ballots electing Rick Wittenbraker as president; Tommy Thompson, vice-president; Karen Williams, secretary; and Chris Slaughter, treasurer.

The selection of class rings was the next order of business. Class Council members, during an after school meeting, chose a ring with a round black stone.

Plans for the Junior Spectacular were begun in October. Jill Jackson and Dave Martin, student coordinators, were aided by the class council committees. Rehearsals after school and on weekends often lasted late into the night.

The class closed the year with the traditional Junior Prom held at the Indiana Roof. The theme, "Moonlight on the Mississippi," was perhaps a subconscious reference to Huckleberry Finn, the book all juniors are required to read for English.

Vigorous campaigning accompanies elections

Mike Berger will work with Leon Fink as the new officers of the Student Council for next year. Mike became vice-president in an election that brought out a record vote.

A "Nuit d'Amour" theme gave sophomores a chance to use ingenuity in decoration for the Valentine Dance.

North Central's Student Center takes on a holiday air each Christmas when the sophomores decorate a tree.

Finding the transition from junior to senior high easy, the youngest members of the North Central student body enthusiastically joined in school activities.

Early in the fall, sophomores chose their council representatives who planned class projects. Shortly afterwards, the council held its first meeting and elected Mark Dinwiddie, chairman; Tom Wittenbraker, vice-chairman; and Kathy Grady, secretary-treasurer.

Traditionally, Christmas meant selecting and decorating an all-school tree. New unbreakable decorations were added to those accumulated previously.

As February approached, the council began plans for an all-school Valentine dance, "Nuit D'Amour." A small replica of the Eiffel Tower was constructed to add to the atmosphere of a French cafe setting.

The class of '67 found opportunities for growth in knowledge and maturity in a new environment. Old friendships were cultivated and new acquaintances made as they began their three year journey to graduation.

informed consumers
by ADVERTISING*

Consumers at North Central provide a vigorous market for food, fads, and entertainment offered by local merchants. Whether they are admiring new cars, playing miniature golf, buying madras shirts, or just enjoying hamburgers at the Huddle, all Centralites have a role in the economy of the area. Many students contribute by holding jobs. Working after school and on weekends, they are adding to their funds as well as acquiring valuable experience.

Members of the yearbook staff are involved in a ten thousand dollar business: the designing, publishing, and distributing of the 1965 Northerner.

When a fuse blew and the yearbook office was left in darkness, staff members moved into the halls to work.

As the year progressed, sometimes we wondered "in which direction" we had really started last May. Pictures mysteriously disappeared, copy refused to "sparkle," and deadlines seemed to jump out of nowhere. But, looking back, all the difficulties fade and we remember only the laughter and excitement that were a part of the
